'Wild Bill' Donovan, OSS Director, Dies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj. Gen. that was worldwide in scope. It William J. (Wild Bill) Donovan, conducted important research at home and daring exploits abroad, died Sunday. director of the Office of Strategic Services, died Sunday. Death came at 1:55 p.m. at Walter Reed Army Hospital where Donovan had been a patient for some time.

Donovan, a W. J. DONOVAN native of Buffalo, N.Y., and a Medal of Honor winner in World War I, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage in April, 1957, and later underwent treatment for arteriosclerosis.

He had been hospitalized since. Death was attributed to "a cardiac failure"—a heart failure.

Donovan, who commanded the "Fighting 69th" Regiment of the Rainbow Division in World War I, gained the nickname of "Wild Bill" for the exacting methods of training he used and the aggressive example of vigor and spirit he set for his men.

His fighting prowess became a World War I legend. But his greatest fame came during World War II as chief of the OSS, the daring secret intelligence outfit.

Meyer Berger, Ace New York Reporter, Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Meyer Berger, Pulitzer prize-winning reporter and a legend among newspapermen, died Sunday. He was 60.

Berger, a columnist for the New York Times and a member of the paper's staff since 1928, suffered a stroke Wednesday at his Manhattan home. He died in University Hospital.

In his column, "About New York," Berger wrote poignantly and in a quiet vein about out-of-the-way happenings and out-of-the-way people of his favorite city. But he also was the master of the dramatic story—disasters, trials, bank robberies.

It was his account of the murderous rampage of Howard Unruh, an insane veteran who shot 13 persons in Camden, N. J., which won him a Pulitzer Prize in 1950.

Five Children Perish In Fire

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP)—Five young children, groggy from sleep and choking from thick, black smoke, were killed Sunday when trapped in their burning southwest Philadelphia home.

The Negro youngsters, ranging in age from 2 to 7, were led within a few feet of safety by a brave aunt who first awakened them and then lost them in the predawn darkness of the smoke-filled bedroom. She leaped alone through an open window to a small porch roof—her second escape from the burning house.

"The smoke was so thick I lost them," Mrs. Mildred Plummer cried.

Dead of smoke poisoning were these five children of Major and Fannie Long: Robert 2, Major Jr. 4, Linda 5, Joyce 6, and Marion 7.

The mother and an older brother, Richard, 10, escaped. Three others in the house also fled safely.

The father is in the Army, stationed in Texas.

Marion Long, unconscious when carried from the house by firemen, died five hours later in Methodist Hospital. Her two sisters and two brothers were pronounced dead on arrival at another hospital.

Party Split Complicates Italian Crisis

Democrat Socialist Leftwingers Join Nenni's Socialists

ROME (AP)—Italy's Democratic Socialist party split apart Sunday. Five leftwing deputies announced they would line up with the Socialists in Parliament. Their move complicated Italy's worst postwar political crisis.

The leftwingers were attracted to Pietro Nenni's Socialists because of Nenni's recent split with the Communists. Their defection to Nenni strengthens the non-Communist left and means that Premier-designate Antonio Segni, a Christian Democrat, will have to find support among other parties to form a workable new government.

Segni was making his first, tentative contacts this weekend and will begin official consultations Monday.

Coalition Short Of Majority

In the last government, the Christian Democrats had to rely on the 22 votes of Giuseppe Saragat's Democratic Socialists, and even then the coalition was just short of a majority.

Now only 17 Saragat Socialists are left, and Segni probably will have to try forming a one-party Christian Democrat government with even smaller voting strength in Parliament. Or he may look for help from right wing parties.

Saragat foresaw this possibility in a statement accusing his five directors of "abandoning our party and democratic socialism." He said their move "furnishes an alibi to the forces of reaction."

Vigorelli Prime Mover

The center-coalition government of Amintore Fanfani, now resigned, included Christian Democrats and Democratic Socialists. It fell apart when Ezio Vigorelli, Democratic Socialist minister of labor, resigned and announced he would work for Socialist unity.

Vigorelli was a prime mover in the vote Sunday that split the Democratic Socialists. The party had its beginning in 1947 when Giuseppe Saragat led his fellow Socialists out of the Communist ranks because of its policy of union of action with the Communists.

President Ends Dixie Vacation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower returned to Washington Sunday night after a Georgia quail hunting vacation.

Eisenhower's personal plane, the Columbine III, touched down after a two hour and 19 minute flight from Spence Air Force Base at Moultrie, Ga.

The President, first off the plane, was met by Under Secretary of State Douglas Dillon. Dillon joined Eisenhower in the limousine that returned the President to the White House.

Eisenhower, who left Washington Wednesday afternoon, had been the guest of George M. Humphrey, former secretary of the Treasury, at the latter's Thomasville, Ga., plantation.

The President arrived at the Humphrey plantation, Milestone, late Wednesday and had planned originally to return to Washington Monday afternoon. He advanced his departure 24 hours because, the White House said, he wanted to be back at his desk Monday morning for some appointments and work on unspecified matters.

Policeman Gets His Man But Almost Loses Pants

BOSTON (AP)—Police Sgt. Eugene McSweeney got his man but almost lost his pants Sunday at a raid on a Roxbury apartment.

McSweeney and several officers armed with a search warrant dropped in on the apartment where a real swinging affair was in progress. They had been tipped that the source of the unrestrained joy was liquor being sold illegally.

The officers didn't knock, just walked in, and what a reception they got.

About 20 enraged patrons, McSweeney said, let go with a barrage of beer cans, liquor bottles, ash trays and glasses at the visiting policeman. But the payoff came, McSweeney said, when a woman opened a bedroom door and yelled: "Sic 'em Charlie."

Charlie, a dog of unknown origin, went leaping into the affray, nipping at every pair of blue pants in sight. Detective Emmanuel Rogers became so unnerved he leaped out a first floor window and summoned additional bluecoats.

When the smoke and litter had cleared, 29 men and women were loaded into several police wagons. At Station 9, three were held on charges of violating the liquor laws.

McSweeney, who artfully dodged every pass Charlie made at his pants, said the dog got away, but he left one clue. When last seen he was headed in the direction of a Station 10. There's more bluecoats over there.

Together Again

With all charges against them dropped by Houston, Tex., authorities, Mr. and Mrs. Clark D. Stillion are reunited with their twin sons whom they "sold" for $500. The 8-year-old boys were "bought" by a policeman and a juvenile officer with marked bills. Stillion said he had been unable to get a job and had been trying to feed his family on $12 a week. The Stillions were offered help. The daughters are Tina, 3, and Nancy, 4.

Big Ice Slick Snarls Traffic In Middle West

By The Associated Press

A big ice slick sent motorists skidding Sunday as freezing rain coated the mid-plains and Missouri Valley region; and arctic air spread into the northeast.

Glazing caused highway crashes, including one near Chicago which took two lives and injured six persons. It threatened thousands of livestock in Midwest feedlots with effects of exposure.

In the East, the Weather Bureau issued cold wave warnings, for eastern New York and in New England from Massachusetts to Maine, indicating expected temperatures of 10 to 20 below zero by Monday morning.

Government forecasters also issued a special glaze warning to motorists and stockmen in southern Iowa, northwest and extreme northern Missouri, southeast Nebraska and the west and north portions of Kansas.

Worsening ice conditions were expected to cover all of Nebraska by morning.

Frigid conditions in the northern plains and upper Mississippi Valley were underlined by a 30-below-zero reading early Sunday at International Falls, Minn., and 20 below at Grand Forks, N.D.

Sub-zero cold held on at midday along the middle Canadian border.

Ahead of the cold air spread the mercury was in the 50s in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Tennessee Sunday, and the 40s prevailed from the Ohio Valley into the mid-Atlantic states. Southern Florida enjoyed summery weather in the 80s during the day.

New Lincoln Papers Found

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A group of newly-found Lincoln documents went on display at the opening of the National Archives' Lincoln sesquicentennial exhibit Sunday.

One of the new finds uncovered in old records of the War and State Departments was a telegram from the Civil War President urging the governor of Indiana to send Union recruits "quickly."

Another was a telegram from Mary Todd Lincoln to her husband just before the fall of Richmond.

That and other newly found telegrams to the President from Mrs. Lincoln are believed to be the last written messages she sent to her husband and are described as a "significant discovery."

$400,000 In Gems Stolen From Trio

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation said at least $400,000 worth of emeralds and diamonds were stolen from a wealthy trio in a Miami hotel Sunday.

Victims of the theft, which police said was the biggest in the history of diamond-studded Miami Beach, were Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Greenbaum and Mrs. Arthur Cole. Mrs. Greenbaum's sister, Greenbaum is chairman of the board of Hertz Corp., the nationwide rental car organization.

Red Pressure Buildup Seen By Secretary

Kremlin Hoping For Allied Split, House Group Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles believes the Soviets will "keep the pressure on until the very last minute" in Berlin and, generally, will follow a tougher cold war line.

In congressional testimony made public Sunday, Dulles called on Jan. 28 for a Western stand-fast in Berlin. At the same time he said he sees no way to pull out of Quemoy and Matsu now without free world loss of the whole Far East.

Dulles said he detected no split widening between Russia and Red China, not any change in Red China's policy as a result of Mao Tse-tung's announced decision to step down as head of the government.

Censored Version

Dulles spoke in a closed session of the House Foreign Affairs Committee before leaving on his current visit to Europe. The committee gave out a censored version of his testimony Sunday.

The secretary of state denounced the Soviet plan for big power withdrawal from Berlin by May 27 and said NATO military men—not the Pentagon—have ruled out as "militarily very disadvantageous to the West" Poland's Rapacki plan for a pull-back of big power troops.

Dulles predicted the Soviets "will keep the pressure on until the very last in the hope that some division will develop, some weakness will develop" among the Allies.

He said full agreement among the Allies and even within the U. S. government had not yet been reached on just what to do about future Communist tactics. But he promised "we will have policy . . . will not be determined on the spur of the moment by some local official."

Free World Showcase

It was to further such policy that he undertook the mission he is now concluding in Europe.

In his testimony Dulles pictured West Berlin as a free world showcase unnerving to the Communists.

However, for the time being, he said, the signs point to the Soviets "becoming tougher and with the growth of their economic and industrial power, their increased military power, I think that is likely to be reflected in a tougher rather than a softer policy line."

While Dulles saw growing pressure within Russia to consumer well-being, he said Red China is heading down the road to tighter Communist dictatorship.

Hagerstown Man Sought In Slaying

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—Police put up roadblocks Sunday in their search for an aircraft plant worker whose estranged wife was killed at close range by a shotgun blast.

Police Chief Blair Overton said a murder charge had been filed against the hunted man, 36-year-old Frank Ellsworth Shaffer Jr. Faith Shaffer, 34, was shot at off two shots before Lewis fell dead of wounds in the side and 9 a. m. Saturday in the tavern she operated and died about four hours later in Washington County Hospital.

Shaffer pulled the shotgun from a long florist's box, pulled the trigger and fled the tavern with the gun in his hand, police said. Deputy Medical Examiner Samuel R. Wells said the woman was shot from three feet away and the hospital estimated that 160 pellets were taken to a private institution for treatment. He was released from the institution after a few weeks.

Genung said Lewis called Fairmeizer Saturday and told him: "You'd better come right over. I have a gun and plan to use it."

The physician called the sheriffs office and two deputies were sent to the home. Fairmeizer accompanied them to the door and the shooting started when they entered.

Fairmeizer, a staff physician at a hospital at nearby Clearwater, was treating Lewis. The city Medical Examiner Samuel R. Wells said the man had been confined briefly in county jail from three feet away and the hospital estimated that 160 pellets were taken to a private institution for treatment. He was released from the institution after a few weeks.

Rio Carnival Ball Mob Strips Jayne To Waist

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Merry-making Brazilians launched their annual carnival season early Sunday by pinching Jayne Mansfield black and blue and stripping her to the waist at a ball in the swank Copacabana Hotel.

Jayne shrieked. Her muscled husband, Mickey Hargitay, covered her up with his jacket and hustled her out through the mob.

But they weren't the least bit mad.

"The boys just got a little excited," explained the blonde actress in her hotel room Sunday afternoon. "I really think Brazilians are wonderful, the salt of the earth."

Witnesses said Miss Mansfield touched off the mob scene by doing the dance after I threw the coat a seductive shimmy while stand-over her."

Atom Test Ban Negotiations Near Collapse

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia and the Western powers appear close to the breakdown point in their negotiations for an agreement banning tests of nuclear weapons.

A statement issued by the Soviet Foreign Ministry and broadcast by Moscow radio Saturday was regarded in Washington as a move to put blame for the threatened collapse on the United States.

The Moscow statement said Washington's attitude on the issue "makes it impossible to conclude an agreement."

For its part, the United States has told Russia it will be impossible to negotiate an agreement if the Soviets insist on a veto voting system to control the proposed inspection teams which would enforce a test ban.

The talks opened at Geneva three months ago. U. S. officials said Sunday this country and Britain are prepared to keep them going indefinitely and that if there is a breakdown the Russians will have to initiate it.

Collapse of the test ban conference would be a blow to worldwide hopes for at least a small start toward international arms control and eventual disarmament.

These hopes have already suffered one blow in the last three months. That was dealt when talks between a group of Western and Soviet bloc governments broke down on questions of how to prevent surprise attack by one great power upon another.

The Soviet Saturday broadcast said "the U. S. government continues to maintain on a number of most important problems an attitude which makes it impossible to conclude an agreement on the cessation of tests of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

The statement pressed the United States to agree to a treaty which would ban nuclear tests forever under some kind of control system.

Actually, in the U. S. and British view, the heart of the matter is the inspection system. And U. S. officials are about convinced the Soviet government is not prepared to accept a system which would give even minimum assurance to the rest of the world that Russia was living up to its word on halting tests.

Debbie Goes Home

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actress Debbie Reynolds was released Sunday from Mt. Sinai Hospital where she was hospitalized with a blood clot in her left knee.

Miss Reynolds, 26-year-old estranged wife of singer Eddie Fisher, entered the hospital Thursday night. Her knee was injured Monday during a dance rehearsal for a film.

"I'm going to the Quitandinha Hotel dance as a medieval knight if I can find a suit of armor," she said.

Hargitay said he thought "spontaneous combustion" started the dress-stripping incident.

"I was frightened for Jayne for a few minutes," he said. "I had a hell of a time getting her out of the mob scene by doing the dance after I threw the coat a seductive shimmy while stand-over her."

Would Hinge On Reciprocal Soviet Moves

Secretary Ends Talks With Allies On German Policy

BONN, Germany (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hinted Sunday night that the West may make some slight conciliatory move toward the Soviets on Germany.

But German and American spokesmen indicated the move will be well-hedged. They also said the Western powers are still a long way from agreement on a detailed policy on how to meet the Soviet challenge in Berlin. There was plenty of evidence of difference of opinion.

Dulles looked tired and a bit haggard as he finished five days of wearying consultations in Bonn, London and Paris and flew off to Washington to report to President Eisenhower.

One indication of how a conciliatory move will be boxed in was contained in the phrase—no concessions without Soviet concessions.

A German spokesman quoted West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer as saying firmly that he was against the kind of flexibility that means giving something away without getting anything in return. This kind of bargaining, he said, would only encourage the Soviets to make more greedy demands.

Similarity Of Thinking

Adenauer nodded vigorously when Dulles made a similar statement at the airport summing up his talks in the three Western capitals.

"These talks," he said, "will help to assure that we shall be united and firm for our rights."

"That does not exclude being conciliatory, but it does exclude merely making concessions for which there is no counterpart."

Dulles gave one indication of the differences of opinion within the Western camp when he told the crowd he and Adenauer had a "similarity of thinking and planning."

He could have said an "identity" of thinking and planning, but he didn't.

A spokesman for Dulles also said his trip had produced "no basic shifts of position by anybody," and that it was premature to say the Western powers will actually come up with any new proposals.

In recent weeks the Germans and French have been described as wedded to a tough, stand-pat policy, the British inclined to a softer and more flexible line, and the Americans somewhere between and undecided.

Reappraisal Indicated

Nevertheless, American and German spokesmen hinted there was a lot of rethinking going on, and that the Western powers are in the midst of a sweeping reappraisal of their positions on Berlin, Germany and European security.

Among things discussed in Bonn, Dulles said, were methods of amplifying present policy, what proposals to take up with the Soviets, and what new things can be added to the Western proposals made at the 1955 Geneva conference of foreign ministers.

An American spokesman said the West was still firm behind these 1955 proposals—which included free elections as the basis for uniting East and West Germany and a European mutual security pact as reassurance to the Soviets that the united Germany would not again become a source of aggression. But the spokesman said these proposals may be modified and expanded in the next conference with the Soviet Union.

Party Split Complicates Italian Crisis

Democrat Socialist Leftwingers Join Nenni's Socialists

ROME (AP)—Italy's Democratic Socialist party split apart Sunday. Five leftwing deputies announced they would line up with the Socialists in Parliament. Their move complicated Italy's worst postwar political crisis.

The leftwingers were attracted to Pietro Nenni's Socialists because of Nenni's recent split with the Communists. Their defection to Nenni strengthens the non-Communist left and means that Premier-designate Antonio Segni, a Christian Democrat, will have to find support among other parties to form a workable new government.

Segni was making his first, tentative contacts this weekend and will begin official consultations Monday.

Coalition Short Of Majority

In the last government, the Christian Democrats had to rely on the 22 votes of Giuseppe Saragat's Democratic Socialists, and even then the coalition was just short of a majority.

Now only 17 Saragat Socialists are left, and Segni probably will have to try forming a one-party Christian Democrat government with even smaller voting strength in Parliament. Or he may look for help from right wing parties.

Saragat foresaw this possibility in a statement accusing his five directors of "abandoning our party and democratic socialism." He said their move "furnishes an alibi to the forces of reaction."

Vigorelli Prime Mover

The center-coalition government of Amintore Fanfani, now resigned, included Christian Democrats and Democratic Socialists. It fell apart when Ezio Vigorelli, Democratic Socialist minister of labor, resigned and announced he would work for Socialist unity.

Vigorelli was a prime mover in the vote Sunday that split the Democratic Socialists. The party had its beginning in 1947 when Giuseppe Saragat led his followers out of the Socialist party's ranks because of its policy of union of action with the Communists.

The tape recording quoted the conversation of four Soviet fighters as they shot down the C-130 transport in response to an order to "attack."

The Soviet government has steadfastly refused, despite prodding by the American government to admit any knowledge of the incident except that the plane crashed in Soviet territory and the bodies of six airmen were recovered.

The six bodies were returned to American authorities. But the Soviets have disclaimed any knowledge of the other 11 airmen.

The State Department Saturday night said it was shocked that the Soviet Union would compound previous denials with a "new and transparent one."

The U. S. government has not disclosed how it made the transcription of the Soviet fighters' conversation. Military experts in Washington said, however, that radio monitoring by one nation of the military conversations in other countries has been going on since World War II, and has increased in recent years with the establishment of worldwide monitoring networks.

Atom Test Ban Negotiations Near Collapse

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia and the Western powers appear close to the breakdown point in their negotiations for an agreement banning tests of nuclear weapons.

A statement issued by the Soviet Foreign Ministry and broadcast by Moscow radio Saturday was regarded in Washington as a move to put blame for the threatened collapse on the United States.

The Moscow statement said Washington's attitude on the issue "makes it impossible to conclude an agreement."

For its part, the United States has told Russia it will be impossible to negotiate an agreement if the Soviets insist on a veto voting system to control the proposed inspection teams which would enforce a test ban.

The talks opened at Geneva three months ago. U. S. officials said Sunday this country and Britain are prepared to keep them going indefinitely and that if there is a breakdown the Russians will have to initiate it.

Collapse of the test ban conference would be a blow to worldwide hopes for at least a small start toward international arms control and eventual disarmament.

These hopes have already suffered one blow in the last three months. That was dealt when talks between a group of Western and Soviet bloc governments broke down on questions of how to prevent surprise attack by one great power upon another.

The Soviet Saturday broadcast said "the U. S. government continues to maintain on a number of most important problems an attitude which makes it impossible to conclude an agreement on the cessation of tests of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

The statement pressed the United States to agree to a treaty which would ban nuclear tests forever under some kind of control system.

Actually, in the U. S. and British view, the heart of the matter is the inspection system. And U. S. officials are about convinced the Soviet government is not prepared to accept a system which would give even minimum assurance to the rest of the world that Russia was living up to its word on halting tests.

Debbie Goes Home

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actress Debbie Reynolds was released Sunday from Mt. Sinai Hospital where she was hospitalized with a blood clot in her left knee.

Miss Reynolds, 26-year-old singer Eddie Fisher, entered the hospital Thursday night. Her knee was injured Monday during a dance rehearsal for a film.

Would Hinge On Reciprocal Soviet Moves

Secretary Ends Talks With Allies On German Policy

BONN, Germany (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hinted Sunday night that the West may make some slight conciliatory move toward the Soviets on Germany.

But German and American spokesmen indicated the move will be well-begged. They also said the Western powers are still a long way from agreement on a detailed policy on how to meet the Soviet challenge in Berlin. There was plenty of evidence of difference of opinion.

Dulles looked tired and a bit haggard as he finished five days of wearying consultations in Bonn, London and Paris and flew off to Washington to report to President Eisenhower.

One indication of how a conciliatory move will be boxed in was contained in the phrase—no concessions without Soviet concessions.

A German spokesman quoted West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer as saying firmly that he was against the kind of flexibility that means giving something away without getting anything in return. This kind of bargaining, he said, would only encourage the Soviets to make more greedy demands.

'Similarity' Of Thinking

Adenauer nodded vigorously when Dulles made a similar statement at the airport summing up his talks in the three Western capitals.

"These talks," he said, "will help to assure that we shall be united and firm for our rights."

"That does not exclude being conciliatory, but it does exclude merely making concessions for which there is no counterpart."

Dulles gave one indication of the differences of opinion within the Western camp when he told the crowd he and Adenauer had a "similarity of thinking and planning."

He could have said an "identity" of thinking and planning, but he didn't.

A spokesman for Dulles also said his trip had produced "no basic shifts of position by anybody," and that it was premature to say the Western powers will actually come up with any new proposals.

In recent weeks the Germans and French have been described as wedded to a tough, stand-pat policy, the British inclined to a softer and more flexible line, and the Americans somewhere between and undecided.

Reappraisal Indicated

Nevertheless, American and German spokesmen hinted there was a lot of rethinking going on, and that the Western powers are in the midst of a sweeping reappraisal of their positions on Berlin, Germany and European security.

Among things discussed in Bonn, Dulles said, were methods of amplifying present policy, what proposals to take up with the Soviets, and what new things can be added to the Western proposals made at the 1955 Geneva conference of foreign ministers.

An American spokesman said the West was still firm behind these 1955 proposals—which included free elections as the basis for uniting East and West Germany and a European mutual security pact as reassurance to the Soviets that the united Germany would not again become a source of aggression. But the spokesman said these proposals may be modified and expanded in the next conference with the Soviet Union.

It Wasn't A 'Clunker' Either!

Lots of times a person will trade at a disadvantage or sell a car at a loss without gambling a few dollars to tell everybody he has it for sale with a want ad. This smart advertiser listed his:

"ST PLYMOUTH V-8 HT Spd. Coupe. Loaded with extra equipment. Like new. Original owner. PA etc."

Ordered for a week the ad sold the car in 4 days and the advertiser was quite pleased. This was a fine late model car and not a $100 "clunker" either.

Greek-Turk Accord One Solution On Cyprus Reported To Situation Extraordinary

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — tion is proposed jointly by Greece and Turkey have agreed and Turkey. The two foreign ministers, Evangelos Averoff of Greece and Fatin Rustu Zorlu of Turkey and their experts have worked since reported Sunday night.

Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis and Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes started summit-level negotiations on Cyprus Friday. Conference sources said the two premiers agreed on the outline of a constitution for Cyprus that will safeguard the rights of the eastern Mediterranean island's Turkish minority.

Some major points remain to be agreed upon, however.

The British government is expected to accept whatever solution is proposed.

Flying Days Over Two Hurt When Car Plunges Off Pier

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, who frequently traveled by air when he was a cardinal, said Sunday he probably will not fly any more.

The 77-year-old supreme head of the Roman Catholic Church casually made this known to a group of airplane hostesses he received in special audience.

He praised their work and commented:

"We often traveled by air before becoming pope but now we can no longer take airplanes. We must take care of the administrative affairs of the church."

"Crackpots" Now Heroes Of Space Age

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A group, once called crackpots and wild men, gather here Monday—this time as heroes of the space age.

They will mark the 10th anniversary of the Department of Space Medicine at Randolph Air Force Base. They helped found it.

"Our work was not always taken seriously by outsiders," recalls Dr. Hubertus Strughold, the brilliant German scientist.

"People heard of us, smiled and shook their heads. To them we were 'crackpots' and 'wild men.' It is perhaps fortunate that our beginning was small, and very very inexpensive."

The men didn't need much expensive military hardware.

"We had office space, paper, pencils, the School of Aviation Medicine library. That, for the time, was enough. All our work was then theoretical."

The key men, all Germans, were Dr. Strughold, now the school's advisor for research; Drs. Fritz and Heinz Haber, brothers; and Dr. Konrad J. K. Buettner.

Dr. Fritz Haber is now with the Avaco Research Laboratory; Dr. Heinz Haber is scientific consultant to the Columbia Broadcasting System; and Dr. Buettner is with the University of Washington.

Here are some of the "firsts" credited to the department they founded:

A "space cabin" to simulate conditions in space, made famous when Airman Donald G. Farrell of the Bronx spent 168 hours in it last year. This was sufficient time to go to the moon and return.

The first intensive work on a system whereby algae would absorb carbon dioxide from the human breath and turn it into oxygen.

Father Denies Fatal Beating Of Son, 4

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Police held a Bridgeport man under heavy bond Sunday and questioned him in the death of his 4-year-old son, whose beaten body was found buried under leaves, branches and dirt Saturday.

The father, Louis Kish, 41, who was held on a technical charge of breach of peace, denied the slaying during morning and afternoon questioning, police said. Bond was $50,000.

The boy, Albert Rotzal, had been living with foster parents for several months.

An autopsy showed the boy died of a ruptured stomach. Coroner Edgar Krentzman said the child had also been beaten about the face and head. He was not sexually assaulted, the coroner said.

Beauty and diet are inseparable. The discovery of a new dish does more for blemishes, pimples and blotches than the discovery of a star.

The basic principle is not only to make it appetizing with low caloric content (if you need to watch your weight), but to draw upon only those specific foods which benefit complexion and figure. For example, at the cocktail hour you can enjoy a low caloric "champagne" drink—a combination of fruit juices. Or, watercress and pineapple juice, if made in a blender it turns out a pretty green color and can be accented with a thin slice of lemon.

There isn't room here to give you long lists of what foods to eat for breakfast, lunch and dinner seven days a week. DO YOU HAVE ARTHRITIS?

Here is a message you will want to read.

Your doctor can tell you there is absolutely no known cure for arthritis. Medical research specialists are now engaged in several projects which, it is felt, will ultimately help in finding a cure, but as yet none has been found. Naturally, we all live in hope they will be successful, but until that time we must be content to get the best relief possible.

Right now there is a fast, safe and effective relieving agent available called Pruvo. Pruvo's ingredients have been used in hospitals and clinics, prescribed by doctors, and have helped scores of men and women to lead happy and full lives. You can be sure nothing is faster, safer or has been proven more effective than Pruvo for temporary easing of a minor arthritic condition or its related diseases—rheumatism, neuritis, sciatica, lumbago and bursitis. And it's wonderful for backache and every-day muscular aches and pains too. Try Pruvo today. Ask your druggist for a generous 75 tablet trial size bottle. You must be satisfied with the results or your purchase price will be refunded by the maker. There are larger, economy sizes also, for continued use.

by John Robert Powers

When you know what foods benefit your beauty, you're well on the way toward good eating habits.

Beauty And Diet Are Inseparable

Beauty and diet are inseparable. The discovery of a new dish does more for blemishes, pimples and blotches than the discovery of a star.

The basic principle is not only to make it appetizing with low caloric content (if you need to watch your weight), but to draw same foods day in and day out upon only those specific foods which benefit complexion and welcome. An epigram, often figure. For example, at the cocktail hour you can enjoy a low caloric "champagne" drink — a combination of fruit juices. Or, watercress and pineapple juice... if made in a blender it turns out a pretty green color and can be accented with a thin slice of lemon.

There isn't room here to give you long lists of what foods to eat for breakfast, lunch and dinner seven days a week. But, we have prepared "Beauty Diet," a booklet which includes a number of balanced, nutritious menus that will help you to plan endless meals. Send 25c in coin to me, John Robert Powers, in care of

Tri-Towns Boys Get Badges As Eagle Scouts

Two Are Honored At Public Rites

PIEDMONT — Two Explorer Scouts of the Tri-Towns received Eagle Scout badges at a public ceremony yesterday afternoon in the Piedmont High School auditorium.

Honored were Paul E. Bowman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Bowman, 200 Grant Street, Luke, and Cris Seymour, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Seymour Jr., 123 Philos Avenue, Westernport.

Wilbur Sifton, retiring field executive of Potomac Council of Boy Scouts, presided during the presentation of the badges.

The mother of each boy was handed the badge and pinned it on her son's breast. A miniature badge was handed to the boy who pinned it on his mother's lapel.

Also participating in that part of the program were Ernest C. Cowell, chairman of the Tri-Towns Board of Review of Boy Scouts; Harry J. Biggs, scoutmaster of Troop 26; Julian G. Patrick, past president of Potomac Council, and Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, member of the executive committee of Potomac Council and also of Westernport, Willis Smith, president of Potomac Council, Charles W. Newman, new field executive of Potomac Council was introduced.

Cris is a member of Explorer Post 30 of which Donald Folk is the adviser. Paul is a member of Explorer Post 86, of which Ormal Hoover is adviser. The advisers also took part in the ceremony.

The invocation was given by Rev. Linus Robinson, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport. Alton Fortney Sr., was master of ceremonies. The pledge of allegiance was led by Leo Howard, president of the Tri-Towns Senior Scout Council, Boy Scouts Troop 30, Cub Scouts Pack 33 and Girl Scouts and Brownies recommitted themselves to the Scout Oath.

The principal address was given by Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, Keyser, and a past president of Potomac Council. It is the 49th anniversary of Boy Scouts in America and he spoke on the theme of "The Meaning of A Birthday." Pointing out the significance of birthdays, Danny Twyman gave a reading "The Creation."

"My Task" a vocal solo, was given by Foster Riggs and the benediction was given by Rev. Levi Ziegler, pastor of the Westernport Church of the Brethren.

Following the program a reception was held at the St. James Parish House, Westernport, to honor the two new Eagle Scouts.

Couple Wins Claim For Destruction Of House By SRC

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Kanawha County Circuit Judge Frank L. Taylor Saturday awarded Mr. and Mrs. Howard Billups of Crisville, Raleigh County, $10,019 in damages as a result of action taken against the couple by the West Virginia Turnpike Commission.

The Billupses sued the commission for $25,000 some five years ago, alleging that they were chased from their home unlawfully by officials of the commission.

Billups was sentenced to 60 days in jail in 1953 when he failed to leave his property after it had been condemned by the commission. He told Judge Taylor he did not know he had the right to return to his property after it had been condemned. The home later was inadvertently destroyed by the commission.

Hyndman Girls To Sell Cookies

HYNDMAN, Pa. — Girl Scouts of Hyndman Troop No. 1 are having cookie sale during February and March. Cookie samples will be distributed at the February PTA meeting, according to Mrs. Victor Atwell, leader.

Funds made on troop projects have been used by the girls of Troop No. 1 to finance a summer trip each year.

Last summer, 33 girls, their leaders, Mrs. Atwell and Mrs. Charles W. Conner and a troop committee member, Mrs. Mason Kerr, took a bus trip to Hershey, Pa. They visited the Hershey Museum, chocolate factory, rose gardens, amusement park and the Pennsylvania State Police Training School.

At the training school the instructors showed the girls how the dogs and horses were trained.

The previous summer, the girls took a trip to Pittsburgh, where they visited the Buehl Planetarium and the Carnegie Museum. Incomplete plans for 1959 call for a trip to Washington, D.C.

Barton PTA Plans Nursing Course

BARTON — A Red Cross home nursing course is being planned in the near future by the Parent-Teacher Association of Barton.

Mrs. Joan Clark, president, who conducted the business meeting said the group voted to donate $5 to the Heart Fund and $50 to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith, whose home was destroyed by fire.

Mrs. Smith is a member of the association. The attendance award was given to Mrs. Thelma Byer's third grade room.

A Founders Day program was presented in observance of the birthday of the PTA by Mrs. Ruby Gattens, Mrs. Evelyn Brown and fifth grade students. Concluding the program refreshments were served by the social and program committees.

Tri-Towns Boys Get Badges As Eagle Scouts

Two Are Honored At Public Rites

PIEDMONT — Two Explorer Scouts of the Tri-Towns received Eagle Scout badges at a public ceremony yesterday afternoon in the Piedmont High School auditorium.

Honored were Paul E. Bowman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Bowman, 200 Grant Street, Luke and Cris Seymour, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Seymour Jr., 123 Philo Avenue, Westernport.

Wilbur Sifton, retiring field executive of Potomac Council of Boy Scouts, presided during the presentation of the badges.

The mother of each boy was handed the badge and pinned it on her son's breast. A miniature badge was handed to the boy who pinned it on his mother's lapel.

Also participating in that part of the program were Ernest C. Cowell, chairman of the Tri-Towns Board of Review of Boy Scouts; Harry J. Biggs, scoutmaster of Troop 36; Julian G. Patrick, past president of Potomac Council, and Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, member of the executive committee of Potomac Council and also of Westernport, Willis Smith, president of Potomac Council. Charles W. Newman, new field executive of Potomac Council was introduced.

Cris is a member of Explorer Post 30 of which Donald Folk is the adviser. Paul is a member of Explorer Post 86, of which Ormal Hoover is adviser. The advisers also took part in the ceremony.

The invocation was given by Rev. Linus Robinson, pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport. Alton Fortney Sr., was master of ceremonies. The pledge of allegiance was led by Leo Howard, president of the Tri-Towns Senior Scout Council. Boy Scouts Troop 30, Cub Scouts Pack 33 and Girl Scouts and Brownies recommitted themselves to the Scout Oath.

The principal address was given by Dr. E. E. Church, president of Potomac State College, Keyser, and a past president of Potomac Council. It is the 49th anniversary of Boy Scouts in America and he spoke on the theme of "The Meaning of A Birthday." Pointing out the significance of birthdays, Danny Twyman gave a reading "The Creation."

"My Task" a vocal solo, was given by Foster Riggs and the benediction was given by Rev. Levi Ziegler, pastor of the Westernport Church of the Brethren.

Following the program a reception was held at the St. James Parish House, Westernport, to honor the two new Eagle Scouts.

Couple Wins Claim For Destruction Of House By SRC

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Kanawha County Circuit Judge Frank L. Taylor Saturday awarded Mr. and Mrs. Howard Billups of Cirtsville, Raleigh County, $10,019 in damages as a result of action taken against the couple by the West Virginia Turnpike Commission.

The Billups sued the commission for $25,000 some five years ago, alleging that they were chased from their home unlawfully by officials of the commission. Billups was sentenced to 60 days in jail in 1953 when he failed to leave his property after it had been condemned by the commission. He told Judge Taylor he did not know he had the right to return to his property after it had been condemned. The home later was inadvertently destroyed by the commission.

W.Va. Delegates Studying Rival Liquor Bills

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The House Temperance Committee will begin consideration of a West Virginia liquor by the drink prohibition "package" Monday.

It was reported Sunday that Committee Chairman Donald Robertson (D-Harrison) might limit the afternoon session to arranging a public hearing on the two proposed constitutional amendments introduced last week by "wet" leader Del. J. E. Watson (D-Marion).

One amendment calls for legalization of over-the-bar sale of liquor at a limited number of outlets.

The second would return the state to prohibition, abolishing the present state monopoly package stores but probably not affecting 3.2 per cent beer which is legally defined as non-intoxicating.

Watson said that if both resolutions should be approved by two-thirds of the Legislature and approved by the state's voters in 1960 general election, the supreme court would probably nullify both, leaving the present system unchanged.

The Marion County Democrat said he will work for adoption of both proposals—or neither—by the Legislature.

Less Confidence
In The Dollar?

Various reasons have been advanced for the Toronto Stock Exchange's decision to start trading in gold bars, but perhaps two should be enough.

In a world in which bank note printing presses have been kept more than ordinarily busy these last few years, people find security and comfort in the possession of gold. And there is always the possibility that the price will be increased from the present $35 an ounce, in spite of stern denials by Federal Reserve Bank officials.

A desire on the part of the public to take refuge in gold can hardly be considered a healthy sign in any economy. If gold trading in Canada should reach sizable proportions it could indicate a serious lack of confidence in the dollar.

Citizens of the United States are not permitted to hold gold in their own country, but they will now be able to buy it on the Toronto Stock Exchange and store it in Canada. The extent to which American citizens avail themselves of this opportunity should be an indication of their confidence in the future of their own currency.

Last year there was a marked decline in world confidence in the American dollar. A more intense crisis overtook sterling in the fall of 1957 and the British government responded by increasing the rediscount rate to 7 per cent and imposing severe credit restrictions to curb inflation and restore faith in the pound.

Currency is the main link between government and people. Confidence in government is reflected in confidence in currency. And a desire for gold bars instead of currency hardly expresses confidence.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The First Line

It is impossible to minimize the importance of education. Nevertheless, in this country there are too many parents and taxpayers who believe that they can afford bargain-counter and cut-rate education for their children. Dumb, ignorant, untrained people can not and will not save this country in an era when chemistry, physics, meteorology, geology, engineering of all kinds and similar techniques and disciplines are essential to our national existence.

As Admiral Hyman G. Rickover has repeated over and over again:

"... We are only beginning to fully grasp the fact that education is our first line of defense which we neglect at our peril."

Here in New York, at the moment that I write this article, the night high schools have closed down because teachers refuse to work for inadequate pay. And anyone who employs any kind of workers here, from a receptionist to a typist up, knows that teachers are underpaid.

But it is not just a matter of money. Teachers must learn. A teacher who only teaches but does not learn is obsolescent in no time. Learning costs money and for a teacher that can mean books, magazines, travel, summer college and all sorts of devices for keeping up with the advances of knowledge which roll into the realm of learning like an avalanche. Boys and girls who read newspapers and magazines must not encounter a tired, weary, two-day teacher who has not had the time to keep up-to-date and who is not, as the saying goes, one bone ahead of the pupil.

It is a perilous situation and, in the opinion of many educators, the basic trouble is inadequate payment to teachers for the type of work teachers have to do. To some tax-paying parents, ridden ragged by taxes which have become a horrifying item in every family's budget, it often seems that the schools could do with less money, never realizing that what is taken out of schools' budgets is usually taken out of teachers' salaries and that that cannot be done without the entire school system collapsing. Let the budget makers eliminate duplications, graft, useless jobs, dishonest relief, swindling contractors — but increase the pay of teachers. Parents whose families have grown up and are no longer at any school, sometimes forget how important the school can be to the community.

Admiral Rickover made another point which is extremely important:

"... Knowledge increases so rapidly today that extreme specialization is inevitable. This could easily raise a barrier between the mass of the people on one side and numerous small groups of experts on the other; each little group of specialists seeking to silence public criticism on the grounds that the people are too ignorant to have a valid opinion. We ought not allow such undemocratic viewpoints to prevail. One does not have to be an expert himself to be able to judge whether the expert has done his job satisfactorily."

The real danger is not so much in the individual but in the various pressure groups which are organized for special purposes and seem often to outlive their usefulness but who nevertheless continue to labor not only to collect money but to seek to suppress conflicting points of view. They often use an argument similar to the "anti-party" condemnation of Soviet Russia. If one is not in style intellectually and spiritually, he is to be condemned.

This persecution of the individual was very general at the height of the "New Deal," and subsequently Communists and others were brought before Congressional committees. The Left Wing-ers, having seen what Russian purges did, developed an hysteria which they called McCarthyism and which became a political issue in the United States.

Whenever differences and divergencies of opinion are suppressed, a nation dies, first spiritually and then physically. It fascinates me that Admiral Rickover, a scientist and a naval man, is devoting himself to arousing the country to the need for proper education. He, who developed the atomic submarine, has really rediscovered the first line of defense — it is the school house. And Americans would do well to follow his guidance. I used to talk about dedication, but it is asking too much of a young man who can work for a decent living in a laboratory, let us say, of a company working on space rockets, to teach under present conditions. His job can be dedication too.

Hardly The Sheriff We Need

The 'Spenders' Start Deflating The Dollar

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — An economic debacle is in the making. Can it be avoided? Both Houses of Congress took on Wednesday a step that may hasten its coming.

The American people may learn sooner than anybody has believed possible that a blunder was made in the election last November by giving the Democratic Party control of Congress.

For the threat now is that, if the budget is unbalanced, higher taxes for everybody will have to be enacted. And if the revenues to balance the higher spending begun by the Democrats are not to be collected by the government, then the American people are in for an era of inflation that could send the cost of living upward and eventually bring the dollar down to a ten-cent purchasing power. This would mean international danger. For the weakness in the American dollar would have a far-reaching effect on the currencies of Western nations.

The vote in the House and Senate last week on the federal housing program is significant. It was a bold defiance of budget-balancing and an invitation to higher and higher taxes. President Eisenhower has said frankly that, if the budget is unbalanced, he will demand the passage of higher taxes.

The Democrats lined up almost solidly for budget-busting and disregarded the inflationary dangers. Of the 282 Democrats in the House, 257 voted to authorize $300,000,000 to provide direct loans to veterans for housing whenever they cannot borrow from private institutions. Only two Democrats voted with 121 Republicans against the measure. Just why any group of American citizens should be given such an advantage—especially in these days when there are outrages about "second-class citizenship" and discrimination—is not clear to anybody except the politicians. They think the relatively small number of veterans in the country who can't borrow from private loan institutions is a big enough vote to go after in disregard of the interests of all other voters. But that's selfish and misguided politics.

Democrats cast 51 of the 58 votes in the Senate against the Administration's housing program, and in favor of more money than the budget provided. Only seven Democrats voted with 25 Republicans to support the President's budget. This shows plainly that, in both Houses of Congress, the Democratic Party has become the party of the "spenders" and looks with scorn on the "savers."

There are several bills coming up for consideration in Congress involving the expenditures of more billions than the budget provides. If the Democrats think the country is back of them, they'll make a shambles of the President's budget. There is a feeling here on Capitol Hill that the country doesn't care and that the sky is the limit on public spending if a "welfare" label can be pinned on it. Indeed, there are many so-called economists who say that the more spent, the more the country will prosper. No private individual has ever been able to get by on a doctrine that favors spending more than one earns or borrowing more than one can pay back.

The only reason the government can borrow large sums while its tax receipts are down is because people have confidence in the ultimate capacity of the Treasury to pay back what it borrows. Once this confidence is shaken and government bonds depreciate in value, the government has to pay higher and higher interest rates. The price

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINGTON —State department officers have again voiced their concern over the effect that foreign dignitaries visiting the United States have on American citizens.

Their concern was expressed in the wake of the Washington visit by President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina. Frondizi began his visit with a good press, and a good public reaction because he represented "democratic" elements of his formerly dictator-ridden homeland.

However, this initial impression was soon dissipated by his hat-in-hand approach to the matter of American economic investments in his country. Frondizi bore down hard on this theme in Washington and in speeches he made in Chicago, Detroit and New York.

The department wants to see American investments made abroad, as this is a prime weapon in fighting Communism by building up the economy of the receiving countries. But they are unwilling to encourage such investments until some permanent arrangement can be worked out to insure that some future dictator or anti-capitalist regime will not seize the assets after they are built up.

Nothing would please the Kremlin so much as to see the economy of the United States weakened from within by unsound fiscal policies. For an inflationary trend would make necessary even bigger spending to pay higher prices for the same armament planned many months ago.

Nobody Knows Who's Really Boss
Of Space And Missile Research

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Between teeth clenched on a soggy cigar, Gen. Nathan Twining gave this terse opinion of the rival bureaucrats claiming jurisdiction over outer space. "They're a bigger threat than the Russians."

This remark by the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was made in the privacy of his own office, not on Capitol Hill. But the squabbling over satellite-missile authority, which prompted his comment, almost broke into the open last week at a Senate space hearing.

Space czars seem to be multiplying inside the Pentagon like rabbits, and the more Senators learned about them the more they became confused over who was in charge of satellites and missiles. Wearily, committee counsel Edwin Weisl tried to untangle the chain of command.

Turning to Roy Johnson, Director of Advance Research, the counsel demanded: "Do you make technical decisions?"

"Yes, sir," replied Johnson, adding with a sweep of his hand that "the decisions I make on the technical level are overriding."

On the sidelines, a half dozen rival space czars winced. "Can you override General (Bernard) Schriever, who is in charge of the ballistic missiles program for the Air Force?" asked Weisl, trying to get down to cases.

"On space technology programs that I ask General Schriever to do for me, I am his boss," proclaimed Research Director Johnson.

"And you can override the chief of the Air Force?" asked Weisl, moving upward.

"It is my program, yes, sir," said the Advance Research Director.

"Suppose," suggested Weisl, "the chief of the Air Force gives his subordinate, General Schriever, certain decisions on a technical matter. Can you override him?"

"I control the money," retorted Johnson triumphantly.

"What part of the satellite program does the Air Force have?" pressed Weisl.

"The degree to which I decide they have," said Johnson.

"Are you the sole judge of that?"

"That is right," acknowledged Johnson.

Another Boss

Herbert York, Director of Defense Research, was also present. He shifted restlessly in his seat.

"What part do you have, Dr. York?" the committee counsel inquired.

"The supervision of all research and engineering in the Department of Defense will come in my office," Dr. York responded eagerly. "That includes the over-all supervision of the space program, missile program and so on."

"Just a minute," protested Weisl. "You will be able to override Mr. Johnson, won't you?"

"In principle, on research and engineering items, yes," declared York, getting in his claim.

"In other words," pondered Weisl. "Mr. Johnson can override the head of the Air Force, and you can override Mr. Johnson."

"Wait a minute," protested Johnson. "I can override the secretary, too."

"You can override the Secretary of Defense?" demanded Weisl skeptically.

"On the programs that I control... I can override anyone," asserted Johnson. Then he reconsidered Weisl's question and backed down: "I am sorry, no, not the Secretary of Defense."

Turning back to Dr. York, the counsel demanded: "Can you override Mr. Johnson?"

"I think so," claimed York.

Another Johnson

Chairman Lyndon Johnson,

puzzled, broke in to give his namesake a chance for rebuttal. "Do you report to Dr. York on anything?" Senator Johnson asked Advance Research Director Johnson.

"No, sir," stoutly insisted the other Johnson.

The Senator said he was reminded of the old story, "Who's on first base?"

"Now I want to ask you this question," he declared. "Who is chief cook in the space agency?"

After much hemming and hawing, the rival research directors decided that President Eisenhower as head of the National Space Council was chief cook.

NOTE — Guided missiles boss William Holaday, civilian space boss Keith Glennan, and a host of other satellite-missile chiefs also staked their claims to authority. The Senators would still like to know "who's on first."

W. S. Exeter, N. H. — Sen. Norris Cotton has a fine record for ethical conduct. Though long attorney of record for the Goldfine Mills in New Hampshire, the Senator, so far as I have been able to discover, never used his influence on Goldfine's behalf in Washington.

James Geller, Beverly Hills — It was in April 1956 that Adlai Stevenson first proposed a ban on nuclear bomb testing. On September 11, 1956, Eisenhower and the National Security Council had decided to negotiate with Moscow for an end of H-bomb tests. But, shortly thereafter, Eisenhower's advisers warned him that Stevenson had made speeches in April of that year, and again early in September of '56, proposing exactly the same thing.

On September 19, Eisenhower reversed himself, made a vigorous statement attacking Stevenson's H-bomb proposal as a "theatrical gesture." In speech after speech following this, Eisenhower attacked Stevenson's proposal as political grandstanding.

On October 26 the President stormed into a National Security Council meeting and angrily lectured them about leaks. He said that his September 11 decision regarding H-bomb tests had become known to people outside the council. Two years later, on August 22, 1958, Eisenhower officially announced the suspension of nuclear weapons tests effective October 31.

HAVANA — The beating discouraged him. He was tough, but the blood was in his eyes and he could taste the salt of it on his mouth. The pain was gone, even when the butt of the gun crashed against his skull. It was as though his head was asleep.

Roberto Garcia, tourist guide, decided to leave the city and join the rebels.

The beating was undeserved. Senor Garcia had been told to go to the airport and meet an American named Senor Jack Paar. This was last July and the rebels had been kidnapping Americans for the publicity. The police told Garcia to meet the American, to bring him to the Havana Hilton, and not to permit Senor Paar out of his sight.

Senor Garcia never saw Jack Paar. A tall American had left a plane and jumped into another car. Now the police were certain that Senor Paar had been kidnapped and the small error cost Garcia a pistol whipping. An hour later, the police learned that Senor Paar was safely in the Havana Hilton. They wiped Garcia's face so that he could sign a paper which proclaimed that the Batista police had not molested him.

In September, Garcia took a bus east, along the spinal highway of Cuba, to Cienfuegos. There, after two days, he joined Castro's Armymilla. He was 37, he had a wife and family, and he would not have joined if the Batista police had not beaten him so badly. And they would not have beaten him if the American, Paar, had jumped into the proper automobile.

Garcia was a good soldier. He knew what he was doing every minute and, within two months, he was appointed a captain. His company fought in the actions around Santa Clara. There were seven hundred men; three hundred had guns.

There was a bridge to be blown and the men had no dynamite. The commander, Victor Machado, said that they would have to cut the bridge with acetylene torches. This would not be easy in peacetime, because the gufers were thick and old and they spanned a stream on the main road between Santo Domingo and Santa Clara.

The Batista Army controlled the road and controlled Santo Domingo and Santa Clara. If the bridge could be cut, and dropped into the stream, Batista would have trouble sending reinforcements, sending food, ammunition, medical supplies.

The bridge was important. Machado took 120 men with him and a jeep with methylene gas to cut the bridge. It was 4 a. m. The men walked the black macadam in moonlight. They approached the bridge, and it looked like a big dead spider against the hills. The Batista Army had cut the sugar cane for 200 yards around the bridge and the little group was exposed to gunfire.

They lost six men. In a little army, this is a lot. They fell back and, on the way, took the town of Santo Domingo. Garcia told the commandant that a tank was needed to take the bridge. Machado shrugged. There was no tank. Garcia said he would make one.

"Give me one day in the hills," he said. They gave him one day. He needed three. Garcia went to the sugar mill at Cruces Andrieta. The workers there were all Castroists. He picked out an International Harvester Tractor. The treads were good.

The captain found 3/4-inch steel plate in the the factory. He cut it to fit around the tractor and over it. Then he sawed little ports for rifles and a periscope on top with a mirror so that he could drive. The Batista didn't have any gun strong enough to stop the homemade tank.

On the third afternoon, Garcia was ready. He and his platoon clanked down out of the hills with a smokestack on top belching black and they swung down onto the level ground doing about thirty. There was a soft sweet exultation in Garcia's heart because now he would square the score for the dead beating. He did not like to kill, but his mind kept telling him that he was not killing; he was only taking a bridge.

When he came to the dead spider, it looked small and ugly in the hot sun and a soldier held up his hand to stop. It was a Castro soldier. The homemade tank ground to a halt, its tread quivering in the racket of the engine.

There was no need of the tank, the soldier said. The foot soldiers had taken the bridge yesterday. Garcia sat in his steel casket and reminded himself not to weep. He shut off the engine and sat. The soldiers hopped off. Garcia stared at his hands.

"In three days he did this," said one to another. "And now there is no need of it." ...

Less Confidence In The Dollar?

Various reasons have been advanced for the Toronto Stock Exchange's decision to start trading in gold bars, but perhaps two should be enough.

In a world in which bank note printing presses have been kept more than ordinarily busy these last few years, people find security and comfort in the possession of gold. And there is always the possibility that the price will be increased from the present $35 an ounce, in spite of stern denials by Federal Reserve Bank officials.

A desire on the part of the public to take refuge in gold can hardly be considered a healthy sign in any economy. If gold trading in Canada should reach sizable proportions it could indicate a serious lack of confidence in the dollar.

Citizens of the United States are not permitted to hold gold in their own country, but they will now be able to buy it on the Toronto Stock Exchange and store it in Canada. The extent to which American citizens avail themselves of this opportunity should be an indication of their confidence in the future of their own currency.

Last year there was a marked decline in world confidence in the American dollar. A more intense crisis overtook sterling in the fall of 1957 and the British government responded by increasing the rediscount rate to 7 per cent and imposing severe credit restrictions to curb inflation and restore faith in the pound.

Currency is the main link between government and people. Confidence in government is reflected in confidence in currency. And a desire for gold bars instead of currency hardly expresses confidence.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The First Line

It is impossible to minimize the importance of education. Nevertheless, in this country there are too many parents and taxpayers who believe that they can afford bargain-counter and cut-rate education for their children. Dumb, ignorant, untrained people cannot and will not save this country in an era when chemistry, physics, meteorology, geology, engineering of all kinds and similar techniques and disciplines are essential to our national existence.

As Admiral Hyman G. Rickover has repeated over and over again:

"... We are only beginning to fully grasp the fact that education is our first line of defense which we neglect at our peril."

Here in New York, at the moment that I write this article, the night high schools have closed down because teachers refuse to work for inadequate pay. And anyone who employs any kind of workers here, from a receptionist to a typist up, knows that teachers are underpaid.

But it is not just a matter of money. Teachers must learn. A teacher who only teaches but does not learn is obsolescent in no time. Learning costs money and for a teacher that can mean books, magazines, travel, summer college and all sorts of devices for keeping up with the advances of knowledge which roll into the realm of learning like an avalanche. Boys and girls who read newspapers and magazines must not encounter a tired, weary, two-job teacher who has not had the time to keep up-to-date and who is not, as the saying goes, one bone ahead of the pupil.

It is a perilous situation and, in the opinion of many educators, the basic trouble is inadequate payment to teachers for the type of work teachers have to do. To some tax-paying parents, ridden ragged by taxes which have become a horrifying item in every family's budget, it often seems that the schools could do with less money, never realizing that what is taken out of schools' budgets is usually taken out of teachers' salaries and that that cannot be done without the entire school system collapsing. Let the budget makers eliminate duplications, graft, useless jobs, dishonest relief, swindling contractors — but increase the pay of teachers. Parents whose families have grown up and are no longer at any school, sometimes forget how important the school can be to the community.

Admiral Rickover made another point which is extremely important:

"... Knowledge increases so rapidly today that extreme specialization is inevitable. This could easily raise a barrier between the mass of the people on one side and numerous small groups of experts on the other; each little group of specialists seeking to silence public criticism on the grounds that the people are too ignorant to have a valid opinion. We ought not allow such undemocratic viewpoints to prevail. One does not have to be an expert himself to be able to judge whether the expert has done his job satisfactorily."

The real danger is not so much in the individual but in the various pressure groups which are organized for special purposes and seem often to outlive their usefulness but who nevertheless continue to labor not only to collect money but to seek to suppress conflicting points of view. They often use an argument similar to the "anti-party" condemnation of Soviet Russia. If one is not in style intellectually and spiritually, he is to be condemned.

This persecution of the individual was very general at the height of the "New Deal," and subsequently Communists and others were brought before Congressional committees. The Left Wingers, having seen what Russian purges did, developed an hysteria which they called McCarthyism and which became a political issue in the United States.

Whenever differences and divergencies of opinion are suppressed, a nation dies, first spiritually and then physically. It fascinates me that Admiral Rickover, a scientist and a naval man, is devoting himself to arousing the country to the need for proper education. He, who developed the atomic submarine, has really rediscovered the first line of defense — it is the school house. And Americans would do well to follow his guidance. I used to talk about dedication, but it is asking too much of a young man who can work for a decent living in a laboratory, let us say, of a company working on space rockets, to teach under present conditions. His job can be dedication too.

The 'Spenders' Start Deflating The Dollar

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — An economic debacle is in the making. Can it be avoided? Both Houses of Congress took on Wednesday a step that may hasten its coming. The American people may learn sooner than anybody has believed possible that a blunder was made in the election last November by giving the Democratic Party control of Congress.

For the threat now is that, if the budget is unbalanced, higher taxes for everybody will have to be enacted. And if the revenues to balance the higher spending begun by the Democrats are not to be collected by the government, then the American people are in for an era of inflation that could send the cost of living upward and eventually bring the dollar down to a ten-cent purchasing power. ## Accidental Death Rate High Among Children

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

America does not have a monopoly on accidents. They are the principal cause of death in children in most parts of the civilized world but the risk differs in various countries.

Drowning, for example, is most frequent in Scandinavia, France, and the Netherlands. The fire-place is a hazard in Britain; and Spanish children often fall into open braziers. In Italy and Poland the youngsters continue to be blown to bits from digging up explosives left in the ground from war days.

Poisoning is common in countries where many chemicals are used in the home. The United States, Switzerland, and Sweden are high on this list. Plastic bags intrigue youngsters in France, Belgium, Denmark and Sweden. They put them over their heads and suffocate before mother can remove them.

Many accidents are unavoidable. Children must be protected from dangerous situations but should be to be given enough latitude to learn how to cope with the hazards at hand.

Deaths and burns from fires and explosions reach their peak during cold weather. Eighty per cent of these fatalities occur in and about the home. The young and old suffer most because they are unable to get out of the building in time.

This winter, teach children to swim. From 2,000 to 5,000 accidental drownings occur annually from swimming or playing in the water. Senior Garcia never saw Jack Paar. A tall American had left a plane and jumped into another car. Now the police were certain that Senior Paar had been kidnapped and the small error cost Garcia a pistol whipping. An hour later, the police learned that Senior Paar was safely in the Havana Hilton. They wiped Garcia's face so that he could sign a paper which proclaimed that the Batista police had not molested him.

In September, Garcia took a bus east, along the spinal highway of Cuba, to Cienfuegos. There, after two days, he joined Castro's Armylita. He was 37, he had a wife and family, and he would not have joined if the Batista police had not beaten him so badly. And they would not have beaten him if the American, Paar, had jumped into the proper automobile.

Garcia was a good soldier. He knew what he was doing every minute and, within two months, he was appointed a captain. His company fought in the actions around Santa Clara. There were seven hundred men; three hundred had guns.

There was a bridge to be blown and the men had no dynamite. The commander, Victor Machado, said that they would have to cut the bridge with acetylene torches. This would not be easy in peacetime, because the gutters were thick and old and they spanned a stream on the main road between Santo Domingo and Santa Clara.

The Batista Army controlled the road and controlled Santo Domingo and Santa Clara. If the bridge could be cut and dropped into the stream, Batista would have trouble sending reinforcements: sending food, ammunition, medical supplies.

The bridge was important. Machado took 120 men with him and a jeep with methylene gas to cut the bridge. It was 4 a. m. The men walked the black macadam in moonlight. They approached the bridge, and it looked like a big dead spider against the hills. The Batista Army had cut the sugar cane for 200 yards around the bridge and the little group was exposed to gunfire. They lost six men. In a little army, this is a lot. They fell back and, on the way, took the town of Santo Domingo. Garcia told the commandant that a tank was needed to take the bridge. Machado shrugged. There was no tank. Garcia said he would make one.

"Give me one day in the hills," he said. They gave him one day. He needed three. Garcia went to the sugar mill at Cruce de Andria. The workers there were all Castroists. He picked out an International Harvester Tractor. The treads were good.

The captain found a 3-inch steel plate in the factory. He cut it to fit around the tractor and over it. Then he sawed little ports for rifles and a periscope on top with a mirror so that he could drive. The Batista didn't have any gun strong enough to stop the homemade tank.

On the third afternoon, Garcia was ready. He and his platoon clanked down out of the hills with a smokestack on top belching black and they swung down onto the level ground about thirty. There was a soft sweet exultation in Garcia's heart because now he would square the score for the bad beating. He did not like to kill, but his mind kept telling him that he was not killing; he was only taking a bridge.

When he came to the dead spider, it looked small and ugly in the hot sun and a soldier held up his hand to stop. It was a Castro soldier. The homemade tank ground to a halt, its tread quivering in the racket of the engine.

There was no need of the tank, the soldier said. The foot soldiers had taken the bridge yesterday. Garcia sat in his steel casket and reminded himself not to weep. He shut off the engine and sat. The soldiers hopped off. Garcia stared at his hands.

"In three days he did this," said one to another. "And now there is no need of it." ... (Copyright, 1959, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Giants' Bill Rigney Injured When Car Rams Power Pole

San Francisco Pilot Suffers Broken Jaw

Undergoes Surgery; Wife Operated On For Fractured Hip

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (UPI)—Manager Bill Rigney of the San Francisco Giants underwent surgery Sunday for a fractured jaw which he sustained after his automobile rammed into a power pole in nearby Berkeley early Sunday morning.

His wife, Paula, who had been riding with him, also was operated on for a broken hip and officials at Kaiser Hospital said her condition was satisfactory.

They said that no report on the 41-year-old Rigney's condition would be released before 10 p.m. e.s.t.

Both were reported to be in "serious" condition after being transferred here from Herrick Memorial Hospital in Berkeley where they underwent emergency treatment.

Berkeley police said that Rigney apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car then struck a pole. They said the pair admitted they had been drinking before the accident but the investigating officer did not issue a citation.

Wilson's 7th Brown Choice Sports Show To Whip Busso In Title Bout

Bo Sherman Of GWU Attends; New Spat Draws Attention

Three hundred persons attended the seventh annual Sports Show of the Wilson Hardware Company yesterday at the Fraternal Order of Eagles Home.

Heading the delegation of coaches of college and high schools was Eugene "Bo" Sherman, of George Washington University of the Southern Conference. Mr. Sherman, who came here from Philadelphia where he scouted the Temple-Cincinnati basketball game on Saturday night was the guest of Joe Stamislawczyk, assistant grid coach and wrestling coach at Keyser High School and well known basketball official.

"Bo" Says He Likes Us

The G.W.U. mentor, who has attended several dinners here in recent years, said he enjoyed coming to Cumberland because of the friendliness shown by local citizens. He added that he also was interested in having athletes of this area enroll at the Washington school where he has been head grid mentor for the past seven years. Paul "Bubbles" Thompson, of Midland, was one of his outstanding players several years ago. Bill Reinhardt, who brought G.W.U. teams here in the 1950s for games with West Virginia University, is the head basketball coach of the Colonials.

This year's Sports Show attracted the largest turnout of the seven held to date. Coaches and managers of teams throughout the tri-state area and other invited guests attended the show and luncheon hosted by Thomas E. Gilchrist, Sr., C. William Gilchrist and Thomas E. Gilchrist, Jr., officers of the Wilson Hardware Company.

Representatives of sporting goods firms in attendance included K. G. "Red" Waltman, of the MacGregor Company, Cincinnati; John O. "Buster" Smith, W. J. Voit Rubber Company, Los Angeles; Lee Anderson, Butwin Manufacturing Company, St. Paul, Minn., and A. L. Baxter, Powers Manufacturing Company, Waterloo, Iowa.

New Spat Is Displayed

Among the new sports equipment displayed by the MacGregor Company that attracted much attention at the show was the weighted spat that is being used by athletes to strengthen their ankles. The spat resembles an ankle supporter with pockets like those on a hunting jacket. The pockets are filled with 10 to 20 pounds of lead weights. Gus Bell of the Cincinnati Redlegs is the first major leaguer to wear the spat. Bell uses the spat during daily exercises. He takes to the mat for half-hour drills with the upper part of his body held down by his grip on a barbell. He raises his right foot as much as three feet off the mat. That's where the spat comes in.

Bell believes daily use of the training spat is helping speed up the strengthening of his leg muscles weakened last season by injury and infection. The spat was originated by Ernie Biggs, head trainer at Ohio State University.

A large display of other new athletic equipment was on hand for the inspection of the guests.

Knicks' Hoodoo Ends

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—New York's "hoodoo" over Syracuse ended Sunday after nine straight victories when the Nationals came from behind to down the Knickerbockers, 113-104, in a nationally-televised National Basketball Assn. game.

Wednesday Scrap Set For Houston

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two light weight fights, one for the world championship, feature this week's boxing schedule.

Joe Brown is favored at 3-1 to keep his 135-pound crown in a 15-round defense against Johnny Busso at the Houston (Tex.) Coliseum, Wednesday night.

It's a return bout. Lanky Busso of New York won a 10-round title decision over champion Brown of New Orleans at Miami Beach, Nov. 5. Neither fought since.

But Brown, making his sixth defense, is favored because he always gets very "sharp" for a title fight, and he is considered the better all-round boxer-puncher. Brown, 32, has a 72-15-9 record that includes 32 knockouts. He also engaged in two no-decision affairs. Busso's 35-7-1 list includes 15 kayoes. Busso is only 24.

The title fight will be televised by ABC at 10 p.m. e.s.t.

The other TV lightweight fight—a 10-rounder—brings together former contenders Frankie Ryff of New York and Cisco Andrade of Compton, Calif., at Madison Square Garden, Friday night.

Andrade is a slight favorite at 6-5 to win their nationally televised and broadcast (NBC) fight because of his harder punch and because Ryff cuts easily. Ryff registered only four knockouts during his 30-6-0 career. Andrade scored 20 kayoes during his 39-4-2 campaign.

Auburn, Kentucky Roll Toward Head-On Clash

Top Quints To Meet Feb. 21; WVU Posts 18th Win Of Season

By FRED DOWN
United Press International
Kentucky, the nation's No. 1 team, and Auburn, the country's only unbeaten team, are rolling toward a head-on Feb. 21 clash that could decide the Southeastern Conference and the national college basketball championship.

Both the mighty Wildcats and the golden-touched Tigers scored easy victories on another formful Saturday night which saw only one of the nation's top 10 teams beaten. Sixth-ranked Michigan State was ambushed, 83-81, by Purdue on the latter's home court at Lafayette, Ind.

Mississippi Blitzed

Kentucky blitzed Mississippi, 97-72, third-ranked Kansas State walloped Colorado, 70-59, fourth-ranked Cincinnati whipped Temple, 80-60, fifth-ranked North Carolina State defeated South Carolina, 72-65, seventh-ranked Auburn bopped Georgia, 95-69, eighth-ranked Bradley beat Drake, 71-50, and 10th-ranked West Virginia downed Holy Cross, 96-90. Second-ranked North Carolina and ninth-ranked St. Louis were idle.

Kentucky's victory raised its season record to 18-1 while Auburn ran its winning streak to 27 games—including 16 this season. Kentucky has three more games and Auburn has two before the big Feb. 21 showdown.

Johnny Cox scored 22 points and Dick Parsons added 21 for Kentucky which opened up a 53-38 halftime margin. Kentucky has won seven straight games since its loss to Vanderbilt while Mississippi has a 7-11 record for the campaign.

Sharp-shooting Auburn hit 56.3 per cent of its shots from the field in one of its easiest victories of the season. The Tigers' first team played only about 30 minutes of the game, with Rex Frederick and Henry Hart sharing scoring honors at 16 points each.

Big O Has Bad Night

Oscar Robertson was held to 21 points but teammate Ralph Davis connected for 22 as Cincinnati scored its 16th win in 18 games. It was an off-night for Robertson, the national scoring leader, who made only seven of 17 shots.

North Carolina State led by only 34-33 at halftime but maintained a slim margin over South Carolina throughout the entire second half. Walt Hudson scored 22 points for South Carolina to lead both teams.

Bob Fehman scored 24 points to lead Purdue's upset of Michigan State, which led, 43-42, at halftime. Spartan star Johnny Green fouled out with seven minutes left in the game. Purdue is now 4-3 in Big Ten play and Michigan State is 6-2.

Bradley Cruises Home

Bradley ran up a 41-27 lead over Drake at the half and then cruised to its sixth win in seven Missouri Valley Conference games. Joe Billy McDade had 19 points and three other Braves scored in double figures.

West Virginia a 12-point halftime deficit to make Holy Cross its 18th victim in 31 games. All-America candidate Jerry West scored 36 points for the Mountaineers who have won 31 consecutive games at home.

In other games, Marquette scored its 15th straight win with a 90-60 decision over Loyola of Chicago. Houston upset 15th-ranked Oklahoma City, 80-63, 17th-ranked Mississippi State downed Tennessee, 52-45, 19th-ranked Northwestern defeated Illinois, 88-79, Louisville beat Kansas, 82-74, 14th-ranked Utah crushed Wyoming, 86-57, Texas downed Baylor, 65-52, Notre Dame topped Canisius, 76-59, and Texas Christian beat Texas Tech, 66-59.

Gene Littler Cops Phoenix Golf Tourney

Posts 72-Hole 267, Noses Out Art Wall

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Gene Littler, surviving a severe case of the shakes, won his first tournament in two years Sunday as he captured the $17,500 Phoenix Open with a 72 hole score of 267.

Leading by five strokes at the start of the day's round, Littler watched the advantage dwindle to one stroke with three holes to go as Art Wall came charging up from the pack. Littler wound up the day with a one over par 71, while Wall was playing brilliantly to record a four under par 66 in a high wind and cold weather.

It was probably one of the most incredible rounds ever performed by the winner of a major tournament. Gene had only five pars on the 18 holes. He had an eagle and four birdies, along with eight bogies.

Wall's 269 total brought him $1,700 and boosted his 1959 money winnings to $13,600, a wide margin over all the other professionals.

It was strictly a two man race coming down the home stretch. Far back of the two leaders, 115 each with 275 scores, came Jimmy Clark, Huntington Beach, Calif.; Marty Furgol, Lemon, Ill.; and Johnny McMullin, Alameda, Calif.

There was a four way tie at 276 featuring Lloyd Mangrum, Apple Valley, Calif.; Dick Mayer, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Tommy Jacobs, Whittier, Calif.; and Paul Harney, Auburn, Mass.

Lakers Move Up

DETROIT (UPI)—Elgin Baylor, Dick Garmaker and Larry Foust shot the Minneapolis Lakers into second place in the National Basketball Assn's Western Division Sunday with an easy 115-103 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

Will I really get automatic receipts if I pay by check?

Indeed, yes. When a check that you've drawn on your account at our bank is presented to us for payment, we "cancel" it by punching holes in it to show that it has been paid. Cancellation plus the payee's endorsement makes the check itself a receipt. Then we return the check, and your other cancelled checks, to you with our regular statement of your account. # Giants' Bill Rigney Injured When Car Rams Power Pole

San Francisco Pilot Suffers Broken Jaw

Undergoes Surgery; Wife Operated On For Fractured Hip

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (UPI)—Manager Bill Rigney of the San Francisco Giants underwent surgery Sunday for a fractured jaw which he sustained after his automobile rams into a power pole in nearby Berkeley early Sunday morning.

His wife, Paula, who had been riding with him, also was operated on for a broken hip and officials at Kaiser Hospital said her condition was satisfactory.

They said that no report on the 41-year-old Rigney's condition would be released before 10 p.m. e.s.t.

Both were reported to be in "serious" condition after being transferred here from Herrick Memorial Hospital in Berkeley where they underwent emergency treatment.

Berkeley police said that Rigney apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his car then struck a pole. They said the pair admitted they had been drinking before the accident but the investigating officer did not issue a citation.

Wilson's 7th Brown Choice To Whip Busso In Title Bout

Bo Sherman Of GWU Attends; New Spat Draws Attention

Three hundred persons attended the seventh annual Sports Show of the Wilson Hardware Company yesterday at the Fraternal Order of Eagles Home.

Heading the delegation of coaches of college and high schools was Eugene "Bo" Sherman, of George Washington University of the Southern Conference. Mr. Sherman, who came here from Philadelphia where he coached the Temple-Cincinnati basketball game on Saturday night was the guest of Joe Stanislawczyk, assistant grid coach and wrestling coach at Keyser High School and well known basketball official.

"Bo" Says He Likes Us

The G.W.U. mentor, who has attended several dinners here in recent years, said he enjoyed coming to Cumberland because of the friendliness shown by local citizens. He added that he also was interested in having athletes of this area enroll at the Washington school where he has been head grid mentor for the past seven years. Paul "Bubbles" Thompson, of Midland, was one of his outstanding players several years ago. Bill Reinhart, who brought G.W.U. teams here in the 1950s for games with West Virginia University, is the head basketball coach of the Colonials.

This year's Sports Show attracted the largest turnout of the seven held to date. Coaches and managers of teams throughout the tri-state area and other invited guests attended the show and luncheon hosted by Thomas E. Gilchrist, Sr., C. William Gilchrist and Thomas E. Gilchrist, Jr., officers of the Wilson Hardware Company.

Representatives of sporting goods firms in attendance included K. G. "Red" Waltman, of The MacGregor Company, Cincinnati; John O. "Buster" Smith, W. J. Voit Rubber Company, Los Angeles; Lee Anderson, Butwin Manufacturing Company, St. Paul, Minn., and A. L. Baxter, Powers Manufacturing Company, Waterloo, Iowa.

New Spat Is Displayed

Among the new sports equipment displayed by the MacGregor Company that attracted much attention at the show was the weighted spat that is being used by athletes to strengthen their ankles. The spat resembles an ankle supporter with pockets like those on a hunting jacket. The pockets are filled with 10 to 20 pounds of lead weights. Gus Bell of the Cincinnati Redlegs is the first major league to wear the spat. Bell uses the spat during daily exercises. He takes to the mat for half-hour drills with the upper part of his body held down by his grip on a barbell. He raises his right foot as much as three feet off the mat. That's where the spat comes in.

Bell believes daily use of the training spat is helping speed up the strengthening of his leg muscles weakened last season by injury and infection. The spat was originated by Ernie Biggs, head trainer at Ohio State University.

A large display of other new athletic equipment was on hand for the inspection of the guests.

Knicks' Hoodoo Ends

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—New York's "hoodoo" over Syracuse ended Sunday after nine straight victories when the Nationals came from behind to down the Knickerbockers, 113-104, in a nationally-televised National Basketball Assn. game.

Wednesday Scrap Set For Houston

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two lightweight fights, one for the world championship, feature this week's boxing schedule.

Joe Brown is favored at 3-1 to keep his 135-pound crown in a 11-round defense against Johnny Busso at the Houston (Tex.) Coliseum, Wednesday night.

It's a return bout. Lanky Busso of New York won a 10-round title decision over champion Brown of New Orleans at Miami Beach, Nov. 5. Neither fought since.

But Brown, making his sixth defense, is favored because he always gets very "sharp" for a title fight, and he is considered the better all-round boxer-puncher.

Brown, 32, has a 72-15-9 record that includes 32 knockouts. He also engaged in two no-decision fights, Busso's 35-7-1 list includes 15 kayos. Busso is only 24.

Their title fight will be televised by ABC at 10 p.m. e.s.t.

The other TV lightweight fight—a 10-round—brings together former contenders Frankie Ryan of New York and Cisco Andrade of Compton, Calif., at Madison Square Garden, Friday night.

Andrade is a slight favorite at 6-5 to win their nationally televised and broadcast (NBC) fight because of his harder punch and because Ryan cuts easily. Ryan registered only four knockouts during his 30-6-0 career. Andrade scored 20 kayos during his 39-4-2 campaign.

Auburn, Kentucky Roll Toward Head-On Clash

Top Quints To Meet Feb. 21; WVU Posts 18th Win Of Season

By FRED DOWN

United Press International
 Kentucky, the nation's No. 1 team, and Auburn, the country's only unbeaten team, are rolling toward a head-on Feb. 21 clash that could decide the Southeastern Conference and the national college basketball championship.

Both the mighty Wildcats and the golden-tongued Tigers scored easy victories on another fruitful Saturday night which saw only one of the nation's top 10 teams beaten. Sixth-ranked Michigan State was ambushed, 63-81, by Purdue on the latter's home court at Lafayette, Ind.

Mississippi Bltzed

Kentucky blitzed Mississippi, 97-72, third-ranked Kansas State walloped Colorado, 70-39, fourth-ranked Cincinnati whipped Temple, 80-60, fifth-ranked North Carolina State defeated South Carolina, 72-65, seventh-ranked Auburn hopped Georgia, 95-69, eighth-ranked Bradley beat Drake, 71-50, and 10th-ranked West Virginia downed Holy Cross, 96-90. Second-ranked North Carolina and ninth-ranked St. Louis were idle.

Wildcats Now 18-1

Kentucky's victory raised its season record to 18-1 while Auburn ran its winning streak to 27 games—including 16 this season. Kentucky has three more games and Auburn has two before the big Feb. 21 showdown.

Johnny Cox scored 22 points and Dick Parsons added 21 for Kentucky which opened up a 53-38 halftime margin. Kentucky has won seven straight games since its loss to Vanderbilt while Mississippi has a 7-11 record for the campaign.

Sharp-shooting Auburn hit 56.3 per cent of its shots from the field in one of its easiest victories of the season. The Tigers' first team played only about 30 minutes of the game, with Rex Frederick and Henry Hart sharing scoring honors at 16 points each.

Big O Has Bad Night

Oscar Robertson was held to 21 points but teammate Ralph Davis connected for 22 as Cincinnati scored its 16th win in 18 games. It was an off-night for Robertson, the national scoring leader, who made only seven of 17 shots.

North Carolina State led by only 34-33 at halftime but maintained a slim margin over South Carolina throughout the entire second half. Walt Hudson scored 22 points for South Carolina to lead both teams.

Bob Fehrman scored 24 points to lead Purdue's upset of Michigan State, which led, 45-42, at halftime. Spartan star Johnny Green fouled out with seven minutes left in the game. Purdue is now 4-3 in Big Ten play and Michigan State is 6-2.

Bradley Cruises Home

Bradley ran up a 41-27 lead over Drake at the half and then cruised to its sixth win in seven Missouri Valley Conference games. Joe Billy McDade had 19 points and three other Braves scored in double figures.

West Virginia a 12-point halftime deficit to make Holy Cross its 18th victim in 31 games. All-America candidate Jerry West scored 36 points for the Mountaineers who have won 31 consecutive games at home.

In other games, Marquette scored its 13th straight win with a 90-60 decision over Loyola of Chicago. Houston upset 15th-ranked Oklahoma City, 80-63, 17th-ranked Mississippi State downed Tennessee, 52-43, 19th-ranked Northwestern defeated Illinois, 82-79, Louisville beat Kansas, 82-74, 14th-ranked Utah crushed Wyoming, 86-57, Texas downed Baylor, 65-52, Notre Dame topped Canisius, 76-59, and Texas Christian beat Texas Tech, 66-59.

Thieves Rob Court

BRESCIA, Italy (UPI)—Thieves raided the Brescia Court of Appeals Saturday, cracked a safe and made away with $1,600 in banknotes and $6,400 in checks.

TO REPATRIATE KOREANS

TOKYO (UPI)—The Japanese government served notice Sunday it would not back down on its plan to repatriate some Koreans to Communist North Korea. Foreign Minister Aichi Fujiyama told newsmen in Sendai City, that he hoped to get the repatriation program underway by late March or early April.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

Grove one of the biggest success-

"Madame Sans Gene" is Lollo- brigidas next and will be made in Rome. The story is a very dramatic one of the laundress with whom Napoleon fell in love. To stop the scandal he had her marry Marshall Lefebvre, a weak young man. Later, Napoleon gave Lefebvre the title of the Duke of Danzig and the former laundress became a duchess. She divorced the duke, making the way clear for Napoleon.

That lawsuit that Judy Garland

They felt this movie demonstrates there is no place in society for another Capone.

Playwright George Kaufman hasn't changed a bit, thank goodness. He writes me a note say- ing:

"Dear Louella: My g—, that MGM crowd is brilliant according to your report. Think of their having the ingenuity to add a young playwright to 'Stage Door', How I wish Edna Ferber and I had thought of that! Have they also added a theatrical manager, played originally by Onslow Stevens?" And two businessmen who date two of the girls, and an im- portant movie producer named Gretzl, and three or four other male characters whose names I forget? Louella, Louella, how can you write such rot? Please, many lovely songs, one of the please, either print this or throw it away. Don't soften it by para- phrasing. (signed) George Kaut-

Any paraphrasing, George, will have to be done by Twentieth Century-Fox, who are making "Stage Door" as I printed, and not MGM, and you must admit the FEMALES did predominate.

If it's just friendship between Ava Gardner and Walter Chiari, its' the most ardent platonic relationship in history, because Chiari has arrived in Melbourne, Australia, to be there with Ava

Discover Animals

TOKYO (UPI)—Radio Peiping said Sunday two animals once thought to be non-existent in Chi-na—the elephant and the rhinoceros—have been discovered near the Burmese border.

The three golden balls used as a pawnbroker's sign were derived in early times from the arms of the Lombards, the merchant princes of Italy.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

AK 6 ♥ AJ 8 7 2 ♦ K Q 8 5 ♠ 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	Pass	4 ♠

What do you bid now?

A. Double. A pass by you would serve as a slight inducement to partner to go on to five hearts. Since you have a near minimum with a balanced suit, the double would be better strategy.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

AA 9 2 ♥ AK 9 6 2 ♦ 10 6 3 ♠ KQ

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	?	Pass

What do you bid now?

A. That the partnership possesses sufficient trump to produce a slam there can be little doubt. The only deterrent to making the bid is the possibility that the opposition can cash two diamond tricks. Blackwood will not be helpful in this respect if partner shows up with one ace, for you will have obtained no helpful information. Bid five clubs, and if partner has second round control of diamonds he should bid six hearts.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

AK 2 ♥ AK 10 8 3 ♦ 7 5 ♠ 9 6 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 NT	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	?	Pass

What do you bid now?

A. Since partner has overruled your three no trump bid, he is either interested in a slam or is seeking a safer contract. In either case a four spade bid by you will best serve the purpose. He will then have sufficient information upon which to base a final decision. A big demerit if you went on in no trump.

Q. 4—As South vulnerable, you hold:

AAJ 6 4 ♥ AJ 10 7 3 ♦ 5 ♠ KQ 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 ♠	Double	1 ♠
Double	Pass	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	?	?

What do you bid now?

A. Three spades. West has obviously made a bluff bid in spades. North was of the opinion he could

GUNMEN STEAL PLATINUM

PARIS (UPI)—Five masked gunmen got away with an estimated $250,000 worth of platinum Sunday in France's most spectacular postwar holdup. The platinum was in the form of massive melting pots used to contain molten glass for optical instruments in a factory at suburban Le Vesinet. The total weight of the platinum stolen was estimated at 160 pounds.

Pick Up Truck

We have in stock this very economical Pickup Truck. It has never been titled, as we used it here at the garage for small pickups. It is ideal for the farm or business as the sides will turn down and make a flat bed. There is also a large storage compartment under the bed that can be locked. It has a large heater, defroster, signal lights, electric wipers and the tires are like new. It has a 4-speed forward transmission and you can get 25 miles and up on a gallon of gas. WRITE: BOX 736-A % TIMES-NEWS

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The heaviest agenda so far faces the West Virginia Legislature Monday when it returns from a weekend recess and a Saturday inspection trip to West Virginia University's medical school.

Some 27 bills were at passage stage—20 in the Senate and 7 in the House — as the lawmakers begin their fourth full week of the 60-day session just four days from the session's half-way point.

In addition to formal work of enacting legislation, the tempo of committee action during the week was expected to increase. The House Judiciary Committee has scheduled a hearing Tuesday night on workman's compensation bills and on Thursday night on the unemployment compensation bills.

The House Temperance Committee had a Monday meeting set to determine when public hearings would be held on resolutions proposing constitutional amendments that would give voters the right to determine whether the state would return to the days of prohibition or permit the sale of liquor by the drink.

Dems To Chart Course

House Democrats also were expected to caucus early in the week to chart their course in the field of taxation. Speaker Harry R. Pauley said last week such a session would be held to pick revenue measures that would have the support of the Democratic majority.

Democrats control the House 85-15.

Senate Democrats, who outnumber Republicans 23-9, were expected to wait on the results before caucusing to decide on tax measures.

Among the 20 bills scheduled for a final vote in the Senate are two which would strip the governor of the power to set the agenda for 30-day budget sessions of the Legislature.

They would set up a constitutional amendment to be voted on in November 1960, which would let the Legislature determine what items, other than the budget, were to be considered during the short odd-year sessions.

Hospital Bill Up
At passage stage also was the first of several Democratic steering committee revenue measures. This one would raise the fee from $5 to $8 per day for voluntary patients at the state mental hospital clinics.

Other measures scheduled for a final vote were one to give the state fire marshal authority to inspect public buildings in municipalities and one to create an intermediate court in Wood County with jurisdiction over domestic relation and juvenile cases.

One tax measure was among the seven bills at passage stage in the House. It would extend the state use tax—a form of the consumer's sales tax—to equipment of out-of-state contractors working in West Virginia.

One other dealt with fire protection. It would set up new standards for entering into and the cancelling of fire protection contracts between municipalities and citizens outside of corporate limits. Another would allow Marshall College to raise the ceiling from $1,350,000 to $1,900,000 on its authority to sell revenue bonds to obtain funds for construction of an auditorium-gymnasium.

Court To Hear Plea In Death Of Prisoner

WELCH, W. Va. (UPI)—McDowell County Criminal Court Judge Jack Marinari is scheduled to hear Monday a defense motion to set aside a first degree murder verdict against Edward G. Wirtz, 33, Columbus, Ohio.

The Ohio man was convicted Jan. 30 in the death last Dec. 12 at the McDowell County jail of Gene A. Adkins, 28, War. The jury recommended mercy, making a life sentence mandatory. The death penalty had been sought by Prosecutor Harry Camper Jr.

Adkins and Wirtz had been arrested separately on drunk charges and lodged in the "bull pen" of the jail. A short time later, Wirtz called jailers and said Adkins was dead.

Police said an investigation showed marks on Adkins' throat and Wirtz subsequently was charged with murder. He admitted killing Adkins but pleaded self defense.

Union Studies New Offer Of Glass Company

PPG Proposal 'A Concession'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Union spokesmen for 13,000 striking Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. workers studied a new company proposal Sunday aimed at ending a 126-day strike.

Company representatives presented their newest offer Saturday night. A federal mediator described it as one that "touched on all unresolved issues."

Robert Donahoe, the mediator, called it "a complete proposal, a concession by the company which moved it closer to the union position."

President Ralph Reiser of the United Glass and Ceramic Workers Union said the 40 members of his negotiating committee — representing workers in the nine struck Pittsburgh Plate plants in seven cities — were studying the proposal. But he evaded direct comment on whether it might prove to be a basis for settlement.

All Reiser would say was: "Negotiations have not crystallized to that point yet."

The walkout began Oct. 6. The question of a wage increase is not in dispute. Both sides agreed tentatively to a wage-pension package shortly after the strike began. It is similar to other settlements in the glass industry, representing a 26-cent package over a two-year contract period.

Two Injured In Crash Of Six Autos

Two young men were hospitalized and six cars were damaged in excess of $2,000 yesterday afternoon in an unusual accident on Pennsylvania Route 30 about three miles east of Bedford.

Admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital were Ronald L. Foor, 20, of RD 1, Everett, driver of a car which plowed into five parked cars, and Gary Tewell, also 20, a passenger in the Foor sedan.

Hospital attaches said the two men are in "good" condition. Foor sustained a possible fractured left leg and a laceration of his knee. Tewell suffered a laceration of his forehead and lip.

State Police said Foor was driving along the highway about 3:35 p. m. when he attempted to pass a car in front of him. The driver of the other car began making a left turn, squeezing Foor into a side road near a church, where other cars were parked.

The Foor car was damaged to the extent of about $900. Police said the parked car of Alfred Sementa, of RD 1, Everett, was damaged about $150; the sedan introduced in the General Assembly of George Beagle, of Bedford, by extending the maximum jurisdiction of the auto of Ellsworth of Douglas of Hopewell, about $350; the sedan of Ralph C. High, Chambersburg, about $190 and the car of George Layton, of RD 3, Everett, about $100.

Piney Plains PTA Meets This Evening

PINEY PLAINS — When the Parent-Teachers Association of Piney Plains School meets this evening at 8 o'clock the members will discuss the possibility of a Red Cross first aid or home nursing course to be taught in that community.

James Crawford, president of the association, said last night that a film, "Danger Is Your Companion" will be shown. A representative of the Red Cross will be present to answer questions pertaining to the two courses.

Complete Training

James W. Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carson J. Baldwin, 26 Pennsylvania Avenue, and James T. Paige Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Paige Sr., of 384 Pine Avenue, have graduated from recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Democrats Act To Fill County Posts

Recommendations for all but three of the available political appointments were made by the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee yesterday according to Chairman Thomas B. Finan.

Three of the positions have not yet been settled and Mr. Finan said the committee has decided to announce none of its recommendations until the slate has been completed.

One of the positions on which a definite recommendation was made was the vacancy which will occur on the County Board of Education in May. The position must be filled by a woman and now that a Democrat is governor it is presumed that a registered Democrat will get the appointment.

Among other positions to be filled are 14 for magistrates, including three in Cumberland, and two positions on the Board of Election Supervisors.

Members of the Allegany County Bar Association have been circulating a petition recommending that all of the magistrate positions in Cumberland be filled by attorneys. One argument advanced for lawyers as magistrates is that a local bill has been introduced in the General Assembly of George Beagle, of Bedford, by extending the maximum jurisdiction of the auto of Ellsworth of Douglas of Hopewell, about $350; the sedan of Ralph C. High, Chambersburg, about $190 and the car of George Layton, of RD 3, Everett, about $100.

Four Men Join Army

M/Sgt. Virgil Smith, local Army recruiter, said yesterday four area men have enlisted for three years each and have been assigned to Fort Jackson, S.C., for basic training and assignment.

Ronald T. Grimm, 23, re-enlisted in the Regular Army, unassigned. He is a veteran of four years prior service. Timothy J. McGreevy, 18, son of Mrs. Agnes Kinehofer, 236 North Mechanic Street, enlisted in the automotive maintenance field.

Robert C. Honeycutt, 18, son of Mrs. James E. Honeycutt, 508 Hill Street, enlisted in the Regular Army unassigned. He attended Allegany High School. Roger Lee Johnson, 18, 212 Charles Street, enlisted in the Regular Army.

McGreevy, Honeycutt and Johnson are former Allegany High School students.

Klaenberg Will Be Honored At Dinner

Theodore J. Klaenberg, who was recently named assistant general manager of the Eastern Region of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, will be honored this evening at a testimonial dinner being given by employees of the Cumberland Division.

The dinner-dance will be held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club and will begin at 7 p. m.

Mr. Klaenberg, who has been superintendent of the Cumberland Division since 1955, will be succeeded by R. J. Cannon, former superintendent of the Chicago Division.

Jackson Will Talk To Ridgeley Lions

J. Goodloe Jackson, a member of the Cumberland Lions Club, will be guest speaker during the meeting of the Ridgeley Lions Club this evening at 6:45 in the Ridgeley EUB Church.

Mr. Jackson will speak on Lionism. Plans will be made for a joint meeting of the Ridgeley Lions and the Fort Ashby Lions prayer and sermon at 7:30 o'clock, according to Rev. H. M. day, February 18 in Fort Ashby. Richardson, rector.

Fruit Growers Set To Hear Five Speakers

Five speakers will be heard at the annual Allegany County winter fruit growers meeting to be held at the LaVale Fire Hall on Thursday, February 19.

County Agent Joseph M. Steger reports that this will be the fourth year for an all-day meeting of fruit growers in Allegany County.

A. F. Vierheller, extension horticulturist, will start the program at 10 a. m. He will discuss what is new in fruit culture, later developments in orchard mouse control, changes in fruit varieties and weed control in orchards and small fruits. He will return later for a brief discussion on research results in York Spot or Stippen.

Dr. B. L. Rogers, extension assistant professor in the horticulture department, is another of the morning speakers. He will discuss a new way to train apple trees, especially Delicious and later suggestions in the use of lime, fertilizers and mulch in the orchard.

Then will follow Dr. L. O. Weaver, plant pathologist at the University of Maryland, to the rostrum. He will speak on the raspberry and strawberry program.

After a recess for lunch at noon, E. F. Krestersen, assistant extension entomologist, will discuss the life histories of some orchard insects. Dr. Castillo Graham, associate entomologist, will follow with a talk on control of mites, rosy aphid, codling moth and other orchard insects.

Dr. Weaver then will return to the rostrum for a round-up of fruit diseases and fungicides. Dr. Graham and Dr. Weaver will then be called upon to give the 1959 Maryland fruit spray schedule. Adjournment is scheduled for 3 p. m.

Area Men On Apple Board

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Seven fruit-growers from the West Virginia Eastern Panhandle have been named to the board of directors of the Appalachian Apple Service.

They were selected by the West Virginia Horticulture Society as the group ended its 66th annual meeting Friday.

New directors of the informational agency include Malcolm M. Brown, Fred C. Matson and Milton Porterfield, all of Martinsburg; Paul M. Hawkins, Hedgesville; Henry W. Miller Jr., Paw Paw; J. Howard Rannelle, Romney; and Sam M. Skinner, Shepherdstown.

Miller, vice-president and general manager of Consolidated Orchard, told the growers in a convention talk they might well consider semi-dwarf apple trees for their orchards.

He said they were a calculated risk that growers might look into to help solve certain serious problems facing the industry.

Miller said his firm has found semi-dwarfs save time, cut production costs and bear fruit of improved quality.

Ash Wednesday Services Arranged

There will be four Ash Wednesday services this week at Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

They include Holy Communion at 7 a. m., penitential office and Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m., children's service at 4 p. m. and a joint meeting of the Ridgeley Lions and the Fort Ashby Lions prayer and sermon at 7:30 o'clock, according to Rev. H. M. day, February 18 in Fort Ashby. Richardson, rector.

MYF Plans Course On Marriage

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of Calvary Methodist Church in Ridgeley will sponsor a course on marriage preparation, according to Rev. Harold L. May, pastor.

Rev. May, who will serve as instructor for the course, said it will consist of six sessions starting at 6 p. m. next Sunday. Other guest lecturers also will take part in the course which will be held on each of the next six Sunday evenings.

Rev. May said the course will cover six areas of married life. The subjects are "The Meaning of Life," "The Recognition of Heterosexual Love," "Choosing the Right Mate," "Legal Aspects of Marriage," "Barriers to Good Marital Adjustment," and "The Physical Aspects of Marriage."

A series of films also will be shown as a part of the course, Rev. May said.

The youth group is sponsoring the course as a public service and the general public is invited to attend. The course is primarily intended for older youths and young adults, however, any young person above the junior high school level may attend.

The classes will be held in the social room of Calvary Church and there will be no admission charge for the course. However, free-will offerings will be taken to cover the cost of the course, such as film rentals, textbooks and other student needs.

Rev. May said any person registering for the course should be prepared to try and attend all the classes.

The Ridgeley minister said the fellowship group decided to sponsor this type of course because of the great number of marriages which end in divorce.

Employment Security Office Open Thursday

The Cumberland office of the Department of Employment Security handling unemployment insurance claims will remain open on Thursday, February 12, Lincoln's birthday.

Robert B. Kimble, executive director, announced yesterday. Among other department offices remaining open elsewhere in the state are those at Hagerstown, Frederick and Westminster, as well as part-time offices at Frostburg and Hancock.

Mr. Kimble said the department is keeping certain offices open because the size of the claim load in these areas make it difficult to pay two days' claims in one without long lines and undue waiting.

Brief messages of appreciation were given by Trainmaster W. H. Rayburn, Chief Dispatcher D. W. Andrews, retired Chief Dispatchers R. L. Critchfield, A. C. Fisher and H. M. Coffman, and retired C&P freight agent A. C. Cross.

Mr. Wright was presented a set of golf woods and golf shoes and Mrs. Wright was given an orchid corsage.

Entertainment was furnished by the Peter Lukas trio.

Dinner was served to 75 fellow employees and their wives.

Book On Chicago Fire Among Library Additions

"The Great Chicago Fire" by Robert Cromie is one of the new books of interest which have been added to the Cumberland Free Public Library's collection, according to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

Brief reviews of a number of new volumes have been prepared by Miss Elizabeth Cain, an assistant to Miss Walsh.

In the book about the Chicago fire, the author has taken great care to preserve historical accuracy together with a thrilling narrative. With 16 pages of illustrations there are several contemporary photographs previously unpublished.

Miss Cain writes that in "Scramble Six Hurricanes" Donald Moore has written one of the most exciting accounts of war at sea. Relying on accurate, first-hand information, the author gives a true picture of one Arctic convey.

General Albert C. Wedemeyer, one of the top military strategists, presents the "Wedemeyer Report." Miss Cain says that this text examines objectively the post-war policies of World War II. Great war-time figures are described and facts disclosed in this splendid contribution to modern history.

"Victorine" by Frances Parkinson Keyes describes the return to Louisiana of one of the lineal descendants of "Blue Camellia." This is considered a worthy successor to the many splendid Keyes novels.

Junior readers, especially the boys, will be pleased with "Gridiron Crusade" by Dick Friedlich. Equally welcome to all younger readers is "Bright Warm" by Dorothy Lyons.

"Our Presidents" by James Morgan has been revised fully and revised and updated with the inclusion of a new chapter on President Eisenhower written by Merlo J. Pusey. This text will be an important and fascinating reference work.

Sled Riding Areas To Be Barricaded

Safety Rules Are Set Up For Sport

Sled riding areas have been set off in all areas of the city, according to Street Commissioner John J. Long.

He said plans for the sledding streets were worked out at a conference between C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, and Lt. Raymond R. Johnston, chief of the Police Department's Traffic bureau.

The streets which will be barricaded for safe sledding are:

South End — Race Street from Oldtown Road to Third Street.

Fort Hill — Cecil Street, from Ridgewood Avenue to Greenway Avenue.

East Side — Cecelia Street, from Maryland Avenue to Park Street.

West Side — Beall Street, from Allegany to Lee Street.

West Side — Chase Street, from Cumberland Street to Fayette Street.

North End — Chestnut Street, from Independence Street to Valley Street.

Bedford Road — Conrad Avenue, from Bedford Street to Frederick Street.

North End — Sylvan Avenue, from Piedmont Avenue to Franklin Street.

Mr. Long said the streets will be blocked off whenever there is a good snow for sledding.

To Erect Barriers

When the plan is placed into effect, Recreation and Street Department crews will move barricades, equipped with red lanterns, to the sledding areas.

Cars will be allowed to enter the barricaded streets but only when due caution to the safety of children is considered.

Mr. Mason pointed out that parents in each sledding area will be expected to take turns supervising the sledding areas and watching out for cars. For years, parents have been cooperating whenever sledding areas are set aside.

Rules for sledding areas, worked out by the Recreation and Police Department, follow:

Do not run and slam your sled when starting. Many a person has slipped and injured himself severely while doing this.

Do not ride one on top of another, as most accidents occur when children are riding double.

Caution Is Urged

Do not try to ram another sled. Keep clear of the track while returning with your sled.

Be careful of small children on the track.

Drivers — be extremely careful in sledding areas.

Parents — watch out for cars at the intersection and see that children obey the above rules.

Mr. Long reported that he had received a petition from residents of the Chestnut Street area, asking that the street not be salted but be roped off for sled riding.

The street, one of the most popular sledding areas, has been included in the list.

Fontaine Sisters Made Honorary Marylanders

Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan had a hand in giving the singing Fontaine Sisters honorary Maryland citizenship over the weekend.

The Fontaine Sisters received an award from the Catholic Youth Organization at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore Saturday night for their "clean, wholesome" entertainment. Mr. Finan, representing Governor J. Millard Tawes at the Mardi Gras attended by some 3,000 persons, then handed the three sisters proclamations as honorary citizens of the State of Maryland.

Last Monday, the former city attorney was called upon to represent Governor Tawes at the 30th annual Conference of Christians and Jews in Baltimore.

Building Year Starts Slowly

Building permit activity in the Allegany County assessment department got off to its slowest January start in five years last month when only five permits for $18,100 worth of construction were issued.

January is usually the slowest month of the year for building permits in view of the winter weather. However, none of the past four Januarys was as slow as last month.

A year ago, for instance there were nine January permits and the total builder-estimated cost was $30,800. The year before, there were 16 January permits and the total was a whopping $2,054,950. That was the month in which the permit was obtained for the $2 million shopping center which was proposed on Winchester Road. It never has come into being. In 1956 there were 12 January permits for $63,550. The figures for the first month of 1955 were 19 permits and $81,850.

Last month's five permits included two for new dwellings, two for summer cabins and one for a garage. Two permits, for the cabins, were in Election District 1 at Little Orleans. The others were Districts 8, Westernport, 17, Vale Summit, and 31, McCool.

RABBI SELINGER

Kiwanis To Hear Rabbi Talk On Brotherhood

In celebration of Brotherhood Week, the Cumberland Kiwanis Club will be addressed by Rabbi Max Selinger, spiritual leader of Cngregation B'er Chayim, at its meeting at Central YMCA at 12:15 p. m. Thursday.

"A Rabbi's View of Christian-Jewish Brotherhood" will be the topic of his remarks. Rabbi Selinger was born in Germany but had to flee to save his life during the persecutions which characterized the Nazi regime. Although he found no brotherhood in his homeland, he credits Christian-Jewish brotherhood from another quarter with his survival.

Rabbi Selinger has been at B'er Chayim since last fall. Ordained at the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati last June, he is filling his first full-time pulpit, before entering the seminary in 1954, he had served five years on the University of Oklahoma faculty.

Knights Plan Communion Event Sunday

The eighth annual corporate Communion breakfast of Chief Justice Tawes General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, will be held on Sunday at SS. Peter and Paul social hall after the 8:15 a. m. Mass.

Rev. S. D. Mark, SDS, of the Salvatorian Mission Society, will be the guest speaker.

The Society has foreign missions in Tunduru, Mbangola and Namdumbo, Africa. New chapels are now being constructed at the two former missions. The provincial house of the Society is at Elkton.

A chalice and paten will be presented to the Missions by the members of the Assembly. The names of deceased members of the Assembly, who died within the past year, will be inscribed on the chalice.

Toastmaster for the breakfast will be John Kreidler, faithful pilot. Norman Fearnow is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Rev. Charles Quinn, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Westernport, is the faithful friar. Members are requested to meet in the church hall at 7:45 a. m. dressed in tuxedo, outside baldric and white gloves.

$4,879 Raised For UHF-TV

Nearly $1,000 has been donated during the past week toward a UHF-TV translator station for the Cumberland area, bringing the total in cash and pledges to $4,879.23, the board of directors of the Peoples Community TV Association announced following its weekly meeting at 130 N. Centre Street last night.

The board said that $755 in cash and pledges made this the organization's biggest week to date. It was also stated that $21.50 was received in donations for advertising purposes at a public meeting last Thursday night.

The board decided to hold another public meeting this week at a time to be announced. By-laws of the association were discussed at last night's meeting, and letters were read from the managements of WTOP-TV, of Washington, and KDKA-TV, of Pittsburgh.

WTOP, Channel 9, has given permission for the re-broadcast of its VHF signal here, and KDKA-TV, Channel 2, through its general manager, Jerome R. Reeves, stated:

"We would like very much to have KDKA-TV programs received by as many people as possible, and to the extent that we have the legal right, we are anxious to cooperate in making it possible."

St. Mary's Mothers Will Sponsor Supper

St. Mary's Mothers Club will serve its annual covered dish supper next Sunday from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. in the church hall.

Ham and meat loaf will be served. The supper is for the benefit of the school and convent fund.

State Assembly To Get Tawes' Plan For SRC

Walsh Rt. 40 Bill Up For Hearing

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Tawes plans to go before the Maryland Legislature this week with his proposal to reorganize the State Road Commission.

His speech before a joint session of the Senate and House is expected to be delivered Thursday.

It will deal primarily with the SRC and how Tawes thinks it should be revamped for broader geographic representation. He plans to replace the present 3-man commission with a seven-member agency and designate one of them director of highways and chairman of the commission, a dual job. He also plans to overhaul its right-of-way division.

Will Outline Proposals

Tawes will outline his proposals after the present roads commission has appeared before finance committees of the Senate and House Tuesday and Wednesday nights to report on progress of the state's long-range highway program.

Chairman Robert O. Bonnell, who will lead the discussions, has already submitted his resignation to the new governor to take effect Feb. 16. A Republican appointed by former Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, he agreed to continue in the job through the annual legislative report.

Tawes has not announced who Bonnell's successor will be. It is understood that John J. McMullen of Cumberland, Democratic member of the present commission, will take over the chairmanship until the new reorganization plan goes into effect this summer.

Walsh Bill To Be Aired

Another highway matter coming before the Assembly this week is a proposal by Del. Walsh (D-Allegany) which would authorize the SRC to acquire land along U. S. 40 in Western Maryland for development as recreation areas.

The House Ways and Means Committee will conduct a hearing on the bill at 11 a. m. Tuesday.

The purpose of the measure is to develop Route 40 from Hancock in Washington County to the Pennsylvania line in Garrett as a scenic highway to compete with the Pennsylvania turnpike and proposed new interstate highways.

Walsh would let the SRC acquire land and build access roads from the highway to parks which would be developed by the State Department of Forests and Parks.

Censor Bill Up

Highways will share top billing for the week with movie censorship, which is expected to draw a large audience to the State House Wednesday.

The House and Senate judiciary committees will hold a joint hearing on the bill which would permit the state censor board to license certain movies as unfit for viewing by persons under 18.

It figures to be one of the more controversial measures of the session. Del. McNeal (D-Balto 3rd), leading a list of 29 sponsors on the House version of the bill, says representatives of the American Legion, Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, PTA and church groups will be among those testifying in its behalf.

Representatives of the Motion Picture Assn. of America Inc. and Maryland theatre owners will speak against it.

Alternate Proposal

The bill, if enacted, would give Maryland the first such state censorship law barring minors from movies, although Chicago has a city law which does this.

Delegates who oppose the censorship bill have sponsored a counter-measure which would create a criminal offense of showing obscene movies to minors and would let police and the courts, instead of the censor board, handle the problem.

The judiciary committees also will meet together Thursday for a hearing on bar association proposals to expand the Court of Appeals from five to six judges and create a new intermediate appeals court to handle part of the workload now handled by the high court.

Two Injured In Crash Of Six Autos

Two young men were hospitalized and six cars were damaged in excess of $2,000 yesterday afternoon in an unusual accident on Pennsylvania Route 30 about three miles east of Bedford.

Admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital were Ronald L. For, 20, of RD 1, Everett, driver of a car which plowed into five parked cars, and Gary Tewell, also 20, a passenger in the Ford sedan.

Hospital attaches said the two men are in "good" condition. For sustained a possible fractured left leg and a laceration of his knee. Tewell suffered a laceration of his forehead and lip.

State Police said For was driving along the highway about 3:35 p. m. when he attempted to pass a car in front of him. The driver of the other car began making a left turn, squeezing For into a side road near a church, where other cars were parked.

The Ford car was damaged to the extent of about $900. Police said the parked car of Alfred Sementa, of RD 1, Everett, was damaged about $150; the sedan of George Beegle, of Bedford, about $450; the auto of Ellsworth Douglass of Hopewell, about $350; the sedan of Ralph C. High, Chambersburg, about $190 and the car of George Layton, of RD 3, Everett, about $100.

Democrats Act To Fill County Posts

Recommendations for all but three of the available political appointments were made by the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee yesterday according to Chairman Thomas B. Finan.

Three of the positions have not yet been settled and Mr. Finan said the committee has decided to announce none of its recommendations until the slate has been completed.

One of the positions on which a definite recommendation was made was the vacancy which will occur on the County Board of Education in May. The position must be filled by a woman and now that a Democrat is governor it is presumed that a registered Democrat will get the appointment.

Among other positions to be filled are 14 for magistrates, including three in Cumberland, and two positions on the Board of Election Supervisors.

Members of the Allegany County Bar Association have been circulating a petition recommending that all of the magistrate positions in Cumberland be filled by attorneys. One argument advanced for lawyers as magistrates is that a local bill has been introduced in the General Assembly extending the maximum jurisdiction of Magistrate's Court in civil cases from $300 to $500.

Four Men Join Army

M. Sgt. Virgil Smith, local Army recruiter, said yesterday four area men have enlisted for three years each and have been assigned to Fort Jackson, S.C., for basic training and assignment.

Ronald T. Grimm, 23, re-enlisted in the Regular Army, unassigned. He is a veteran of four years prior service. Timothy J. McGreevy, 18, son of Mrs. Agnes Kienhofer, 28 North Mechanic Street, enlisted in the automotive maintenance field.

Robert C. Honeycutt, 18, son of Mrs. James E. Honeycutt, 508 Hill Street, enlisted in the Regular Army unassigned. He attended Allegany High School.

Roger Lee Johnson, 18, 212 Charles Street, enlisted in the Regular Army.

McGreevy, Honeycutt and Johnson are former Allegany High School students.

Klaenberg Will Be Honored At Dinner

Theodore J. Klaenberg, who was recently named assistant general manager of the Eastern Region of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, will be honored this evening at a testimonial dinner being given by employees of the Cumberland Division.

The dinner-dance will be held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club and will begin at 7 p. m.

Mr. Klaenberg, who has been superintendent of the Cumberland Division since 1953, will be succeeded by R. J. Cannon, former superintendent of the Chicago Division.

Jackson Will Talk To Ridgeley Lions

J. Goodloe Jackson, a member of the Cumberland Lions Club, will be guest speaker during the meeting of the Ridgeley Lions Club this evening at 6:45 in the Ridgeley EUB Church.

Mr. Jackson will speak on Lionism. Plans will be made for a joint meeting of the Ridgeley Lions and the Fort Ashby Lions prayer and sermon at 7:30 which will be held on Wednesday, February 18 in Fort Ashby. Richardson, rector.

Fruit Growers Set To Hear Five Speakers

Five speakers will be heard at the annual Allegany County winter fruit growers meeting to be held at the LaVale Fire Hall on Thursday, February 19.

County Agent Joseph M. Steger reports that this will be the fourth year for an all-day meeting of fruit growers in Allegany County.

A. F. Vierheller, extension horticulturist, will start the program at 10 a. m. He will discuss what is new in fruit culture, later developments in orchard mouse control, changes in fruit varieties and weed control in orchards and small fruits. He will return later for a brief discussion on research results in York Spot or Stippen.

Dr. B. L. Rogers, extension assistant professor in the horticulture department, is another of the morning speakers. He will discuss a new way to train apple trees, especially Delicious and later suggestions in the use of lime, fertilizers and mulch in the orchard.

Then will follow Dr. L. O. Weaver, plant pathologist at the University of Maryland, to the rostrum. He will speak on the raspberry and strawberry program.

After a recess for lunch at noon, E. F. Krestensen, assistant entomologist, will discuss the life histories of some orchard insects. Dr. Castillo Graham, associate entomologist, will follow with a talk on control of mites, rosy aphids, codling moth and other orchard insects.

Dr. Weaver then will return to the rostrum for a round-up of fruit diseases and fungicides. Dr. Graham and Dr. Weaver will then be called upon to give the 1959 Maryland fruit spray schedule. Adjournment is scheduled for 3 p. m.

Area Men On Apple Board

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—Seven fruit-growers from the West Virginia Eastern Panhandle have been named to the board of directors of the Appalachian Apple Service.

They were selected by the West Virginia Horticulture Society as the group ended its 66th annual meeting Friday.

New directors of the informational agency include Malcolm M. Brown, Fred C. Mason and Milton Porterfield, all of Martinsburg; Paul M. Hawkins, Hedgesville; Henry W. Miller Jr., Paw Paw; J. Howard Rannelle, Romney; and Sam M. Skinner, Shepherdstown.

Miller, vice-president and general manager of Consolidated Orchards, told the growers in a convention talk they might well consider semi-dwarf apple trees for their orchards.

He said they were a calculated risk that growers might look into to help solve certain serious problems facing the industry.

Miller said his firm has found semi-dwarfs save time, cut production costs and bear fruit of improved quality.

Ash Wednesday Services Arranged

There will be four Ash Wednesday services this week at Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

They include Holy Communion at 7 a. m., penitential office and Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m., children's service at 4 p. m. and Litany, penitential office, evening prayer and sermon at 7:30 p. m.

MYF Plans Course On Marriage

The Methodist Youth Fellowship of Calvary Methodist Church in Ridgeley will sponsor a course on marriage preparation, according to Rev. Harold L. May, pastor.

Rev. May, who will serve as instructor for the course, said it will consist of six sessions starting at 6 p. m. next Sunday. Other guest lecturers also will take part in the course which will be held on each of the next six Sunday evenings.

Rev. May said the course will cover six areas of married life. The subjects are "The Meaning of Life," "The Recognition of Heterosexual Love," "Choosing the Right Mate," "Legal Aspects of Marriage," "Barriers to Good Marital Adjustment," and "The Physical Aspects of Marriage."

A series of films also will be shown as a part of the course, Rev. May said.

The youth group is sponsoring the course as a public service and the general public is invited to attend. The course is primarily intended for older youths and young adults, however, any young person above the junior high school level may attend.

The classes will be held in the social room of Calvary Church and there will be no admission charge for the course. However, free-will offerings will be taken to cover the cost of the course, such as film rentals, textbooks and other student needs.

Rev. May said any person registering for the course should be prepared to try and attend all the classes.

The Ridgeley minister said the fellowship group decided to sponsor this type of course because of the great number of marriages which end in divorce.

Employment Security Office Open Thursday

The Cumberland office of the Department of Employment Security handling unemployment insurance claims will remain open on Thursday, February 12, Lincoln's birthday.

Robert B. Kimble, executive director, announced yesterday. Among other department offices remaining open elsewhere in the state are those at Hagerstown, Frederick and Westminster, as well as part-time offices at Frostburg and Hancock.

Mr. Kimble said the department is keeping certain offices open because the size of the claim load in these areas make it difficult to pay two days' claims in one without long lines and undue waiting.

Book On Chicago Fire Among Library Additions

"The Great Chicago Fire" by Robert Cromie is one of the new books of interest which have been added to the Cumberland Free Public Library's collection, according to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

Brief reviews of a number of new volumes have been prepared by Miss Elizabeth Cain, an assistant to Miss Walsh.

In the book about the Chicago fire, the author has taken great care to preserve historical accuracy together with a thrilling narrative. With 16 pages of illustrations there are several contemporary photographs previously unpublished.

Miss Cain writes that in "Scramble Six Hurricanes" Donald Moore has written one of the most exciting accounts of war at sea. Relying on accurate, first-hand information, the author gives a true picture of one Arctic convoy.

General Albert C. Wedemeyer, an important and fascinating reference work.

Sled Riding Areas To Be Barricaded

Safety Rules Are Set Up For Sport

Sled riding areas have been set off in all areas of the city, according to Street Commissioner John J. Long.

He said plans for the sledding streets were worked out at a conference between C. Eugene Mason, recreation director, and Lt. Raymond R. Johnston, chief of the Police Department's Traffic Bureau.

The streets which will be barricaded for safe sledding are:

South End — Race Street from Oldtown Road to Third Street.

Fort Hill — Cecil Street, from Ridgewood Avenue to Greenway Avenue.

East Side — Cecelia Street, from Maryland Avenue to Park Street.

West Side — Beall Street, from Allegany to Lee Street.

West Side — Chase Street, from Cumberland Street to Fayette Street.

North End — Chestnut Street, from Independence Street to Valley Street.

Bedford Road — Conrad Avenue, from Bedford Street to Frederick Street.

North End — Sylvan Avenue, from Piedmont Avenue to Franklin Street.

Mr. Long said the streets will be blocked off whenever there is a good snow for sledding.

When the plan is placed into effect, Recreation and Street Department crews will move barricades, equipped with red lanterns, to the sledding areas.

Cars will be allowed to enter the barricaded streets but only when due caution to the safety of children is considered.

Mr. Mason pointed out that parents in each sledding area will be expected to take turns supervising the sledding areas and watching out for cars. For years, parents have been cooperating whenever sledding areas are set aside.

Rules for sledding areas, worked out by the Recreation and Police Department, follow:

Do not run and slam your sled when starting. Many a person has slipped and injured himself severely while doing this.

Do not ride one on top of another, as most accidents occur when children are riding double.

Caution Is Urged

Do not try to ram another sled. Keep clear of the track while returning with your sled.

Be careful of small children on the track.

Drivers — be extremely careful in sledding areas.

Parents — watch out for cars at the intersection and see that children obey the above rules.

Mr. Long reported that he had received a petition from residents of the Chestnut Street area, asking that the street not be salted but be roped off for sled riding.

The street, one of the most popular sledding areas, has been included in the list.

Fontaine Sisters Made Honorary Marylanders

Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan had a hand in giving the singing Fontaine Sisters honorary Maryland citizenship over the weekend.

The Fontaine Sisters received an award from the Catholic Youth Organization at the Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore Saturday night for their "clean, wholesome" entertainment. Mr. Finan, representing Governor J. Millard Tawes at the Mardi Gras attended by some 3,000 persons, then handed the three sisters proclamations as honorary citizens of the State of Maryland.

Last Monday, the former city attorney was called upon to represent Governor Tawes at the 30th annual Conference of Christians and Jews in Baltimore.

Building Year Starts Slowly

Building permit activity in the Allegany County assessment department got off to its slowest January start in five years last month when only five permits for $18,100 worth of construction were issued.

January is usually the slowest month of the year for building permits in view of the winter weather. However, none of the past four Januarys was as slow as last month.

A year ago, for instance there were nine January permits and the total builder-estimated cost was $30,800. The year before, there were 16 January permits and the total was a whopping $2,054,950. That was the month in which the permit was obtained for the $2 million shopping center which was proposed on Winchester Road. It never has come into being. In 1956 there were 12 January permits for $63,550. The figures for the first month of 1955 were 19 permits and $81,850.

Last month's five permits included two for new dwellings, two for summer cabins and one for a garage. Two permits, for the cabins, were in Election District 1 at Little Orleans. The other was Districts 8, Westernport, 17, Vale Summit, and 31, McCoolie.

RABBI SELINGER

Kiwanis To Hear Rabbi Talk On Brotherhood

In celebration of Brotherhood Week, the Cumberland Kiwanis Club will be addressed by Rabbi Max Selinger, spiritual leader of Cngregation B'er Chayim, at its meeting at Central YMCA at 12:15 p. m. Thursday.

"A Rabbi's View of Christian-Jewish Brotherhood" will be the topic of his remarks. Rabbi Selinger was born in Germany but had to flee to save his life during the persecutions which characterized the Nazi regime. Although he found no brotherhood in his homeland, he credits Christian-Jewish brotherhood from another quarter with his survival.

Rabbi Selinger has been at B'er Chayim since last fall. Ordained at the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati last June, he is filling his first full-time pulpit. Before entering the seminary in 1934, he had served five years on the University of Oklahoma faculty.

Knights Plan Communion Event Sunday

The eighth annual corporate Communion breakfast of Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, will be held on Sunday at St. Peter and Paul social hall after the 8:15 a. m. Mass.

Rev. S. D. Mark, S.D.S. of the Salvatorian Mission Society of the Divine Saviour, will be the guest speaker.

The Society has foreign missions in Tunduru, Mbandaka and Namdumbo, Africa. New chapels are now being constructed at the two former missions. The provincial house of the Society is at Elkton.

A chalice and paten will be presented to the Missions by the members of the Assembly. The names of deceased members of the Assembly, who died within the past year, will be inscribed on the chalice.

Toastmaster for the breakfast will be John Kreidler, faithful pilot. Norman Fearnow is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Rev. Charles Quinn, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Westernport, is the faithful friar. Members are requested to meet in the church hall at 7:45 a. m. dressed in tuxedo, outside baldric and white gloves.

$4,879 Raised For UHF-TV

Nearly $1,000 has been donated during the past week toward a UHF-TV translator station for the Cumberland area, bringing the total in cash and pledges to $4,879.23, the board of directors of the Peoples Community TV Association announced following its weekly meeting at 130 N. Centre Street last night.

The board said that $755 in cash and pledges made this the organization's biggest week to date. It was also stated that $21.50 was received in donations for advertising purposes at a public meeting last Thursday night.

The board decided to hold another public meeting this week at a time to be announced. By-laws of the association were discussed at last night's meeting, and letters were read from the managements of WTOP-TV, of Washington, and KDKA-TV, of Pittsburgh.

WTOP, Channel 9, has given permission for the re-broadcast of its VHF signal here, and KDKA-TV, Channel 2, through its general manager, Jerome R. Reeves, stated:

"We would like very much to have KDKA-TV programs received by as many people as possible, and to the extent that we have the legal right, we are anxious to cooperate in making it possible."

St. Mary's Mothers Will Sponsor Supper

St. Mary's Mothers Club will serve its annual covered dish supper next Sunday from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. in the church hall.

Ham and meat loaf will be served. The supper is for the benefit of the school and convent fund.

State Assembly To Get Tawes' Plan For SRC

Walsh Rt. 40 Bill Up For Hearing

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes plans to go before the Maryland Legislature this week with his proposal to reorganize the State Road Commission.

His speech before a joint session of the Senate and House is expected to be delivered Thursday.

It will deal primarily with the SRC and how Tawes thinks it should be revamped for broader geographic representation. He plans to replace the present 3-man commission with a seven-member agency and designate one of them director of highways and chairman of the commission, a dual job. He also plans to overhaul its right-of-way division.

Will Outline Proposals

Tawes will outline his proposals after the present roads commission has appeared before finance committees of the Senate and House Tuesday and Wednesday nights to report on progress of the state's long-range highway program.

Chairman Robert O. Bonnell, who will lead the discussions, has already submitted his resignation to the new governor to take effect Feb. 16. A Republican aide, R. McKeldin, he agreed to continue in the job through the annual legislative period.

Tawes has not announced who Bonnell's successor will be. It is understood that John J. McMullen of Cumberland, Democratic member of the present commission, will take over the chairmanship until the new reorganization plan goes into effect this summer.

Walsh Bill To Be Aired

Another highway matter coming before the Assembly this week is a proposal by Del. Walsh (D-Allegany) which would authorize the SRC to acquire land along U. S. 40 in Western Maryland for development as recreation areas.

The House Ways and Means Committee will conduct a hearing on the bill at 11 a. m. Tuesday. The purpose of the measure is to develop Route 40 from Hancock in Washington County to the Pennsylvania line in Garrett as a scenic highway to compete with the Pennsylvania turnpike and proposed new interstate highways.

Walsh would let the SRC acquire land and build access roads from the highway to parks which would be developed by the State Department of Forests and Parks.

Censor Bill Up

Highways will share top billing for the week with movie censorship, which is expected to draw a large audience to the State House Wednesday.

The House and Senate judiciary committees will hold a joint hearing on the bill which would permit the state censor board to license certain movies as unfit for viewing by persons under 18.

It figures to be one of the more controversial measures of the session. Del. McNeal (D-Balto 3rd), leading a list of 29 sponsors on the House version of the bill, says representatives of the American Legion, Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs, PTA and church groups will be among those testifying in its behalf.

Representatives of the Motion Picture Assn. of America Inc. and Maryland theatre owners will speak against it.

Alternate Proposal

The bill, if enacted, would give Maryland the first such state censorship law barring minors from movies, although Chicago has a city law which does this.

Delegates who oppose the censorship bill have sponsored a counter-measure which would create a criminal offense of showing obscene movies to minors and would let police and the courts, instead of the censor board, handle the problem.

The judiciary committees also will meet together Thursday for a hearing on bar association proposals to expand the Court of Appeals from five to six judges and create a new intermediate appeals court to handle part of the workload now handled by the high court.
